

NORMAN CRIBBENS IN THE LEGISLATURE

Most debated question in political circles today is: Will Premier Bennett read Mel Bryan out of the Social Credit ranks for his revolutionary action in demanding the resignation of Attorney-General Robert Bonner?

My guess is that the Premier will do nothing of the kind. He is much more likely to point to Mr. Bryan, the young member for North Vancouver, as a shining example of "freedom of opinion" within the government ranks, offsetting the repeated suggestion that the Premier himself exercises a kind of dictatorship.

Many of the crowds packing the public galleries Wednesday afternoon expected dark-haired Mr. Bryan to cross the floor of the house and sit with the Opposition—following the example set a few years ago by Premier Bennett and Mrs. Tillie Rolston.

But Mr. Bryan stayed quietly in his seat and an anti-climactic silence followed his bold request that Mr. Bonner resign because of "public dissatisfaction" over his handling of the controversial Sommers case.

The boldness of the challenge was heightened by the fact that Mr. Bonner was the government's "top man" Wednesday, the Premier being away in Vancouver meeting the Queen Mother.

No one questioned Mr. Bryan's sincerity. The words he spoke had obviously been quietly and calmly thought out and his manner betrayed only a slight hesitation.

The flurry of white notes across the floor of the House after he sat down told their own story. Mr. Bryan was being invited to join both the Liberal and CCF ranks, but he showed no disposition to join either.

On the same side of the house Attorney-General Bonner and former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers—the key figure in the case—sat in grim silence.

Second surprise of the aft-

noon was 83-year-old Tom Uphill, time-honored Labor member for Fernie.

Because of unemployment in his constituency, Tom abruptly abandoned the role of legislative clown, by which he is known, and played Hamlet instead.

Without once cracking a smile, he made a dramatic appeal on behalf of 250 miners thrown out of work by the closing of the Elk River Colliery at Fernie, and urged that the Social Credit governments of B.C. and Alberta should co-operate in relieving their hardship.

"For perhaps the first time in my life I felt I couldn't joke on the floor of the House," Tom said afterwards. "The situation is too serious."

Surveying his grave features, I found it hard to believe this was the man who has been known for 38 years as the Premier of B.C. But there was no questioning the depth of his feelings.

My hope is that, come what may, we shall again see the beaming moon-face turned towards the Speaker and hear the gales of laughter as Mr. Uphill, in his quaint blend of Irish and Welsh, forces everyone to see the funny side of life.

Extending a special welcome to the new MLAs, Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook) reminded me of the popular "Head" of a boys' prep-school telling the newcomers on opening day to make themselves at home (even when they are being stuck with pins).

"Don't worry about those butterflies in your stomach," he told the new members. "You will get them whether you are making your first speech or your 20th."

Dam Open To Public On Sunday

CAMPBELL RIVER — B.C. Power Commission has announced the Upper Campbell dam, which rumor said had been made unsafe because of heavy rains, will be open to the public Sunday for inspection.

Since rains have raised the level of the lake to within one foot of maximum height, the commission has been discharging water over the spillway. If the dam had not been ready there might have been flooding along the river, BCPC officials said.

Doctors Cleared In Radium Case

UTRECHT, The Netherlands (Reuters)—A six-man committee today cleared of blame doctors at the hospital where a five-year-old girl was infected with radioactivity.

The girl, Joke Haanschoten, was found to be radioactive after receiving nasal treatment at a hospital at Putten. Part of a radium needle lodged in her nose and was believed later to have been thrown into a stove at her home.

came in when he was about half-way through.

Mr. Bryan said he believed there was a principle at stake that he could not sacrifice to the interests of party unity.

The charges levelled against Mr. Sommers more than two years should have been dealt with "without any concern for political questions or party loyalties," he said.

"My considerations leave me with no alternative to an honest conviction that the attorney-general... has shown a great lack of ability to fulfill all the requirements of his high post and should resign his duties in favor of someone who can."

A number of party members, including Highways Minister Gagliardi attempted before Mr. Bryan spoke to persuade him to drop the subject of the attorney-general.

Mr. Gagliardi was closeted with the member in an adjoining committee room for almost half an hour.

At least two other MLAs tried without success to talk him out of it.

Mr. Bryan began his speech with an eight-minute statement on Mr. Bonner's role in the Sommers case, then dealt with problems of his own riding.

MORE CRITICISM

In this second part of his speech, he had more criticism for the government, specifically Mr. Gagliardi and Premier Bennett.

He criticized the highways minister for deciding to build a new bridge across Vancouver harbor at Second Narrows instead of First Narrows.

He said the premier should put into legislation his verbal assurances that revenue from the highly-profitable Lions Gate Bridge will not be used to subsidize less-used bridges of the Toll Highways and Bridges

Mr. Bryan, 45, is a former publisher of a weekly newspaper in North Vancouver. He sold out his interest last fall.

He was first elected to the Legislature in the 1956 general election.

CAUSED HUBBUB

He is the first Social Credit back-bencher to take a firm stand against the government on a major issue since the party was first elected to power in 1952.

His statement caused an immediate hubbub among Social Credit members.

More than a dozen of them gathered in the government caucus room after the House adjourned to discuss the incident.

They gave little indication what stand they will take on the issue at today's caucus.

Caucus chairman Herbert Bruch (Squamish) said it was up to the caucus to decide whether Mr. Bryan shall be allowed to stay in the party.

Government whip Bert Price took the same position.

"It's up to the caucus, or Mr. Bryan," he said.

RCAF Shifts Equipment To Stations

PORT ALBERNI — Cars, trucks, a bus and an ambulance, numbering a dozen vehicles in all, were brought here by scow from Tofino Airport this week for delivery to other RCAF stations.

Smaller equipment had been moved by airlift earlier in the month. The vehicles were the last items to leave, and marked the end of the airport as a radar station.

Squirrels, Hippos 'Await' Man Invading Outer Space

NEW YORK (AP)—A United States Air Force scientist says man may find outer space crawling with these mental hazards:

Marching squirrels, smiling hippopotami, tiny rocket ships that fire pellets, and little men who swing on space ship instruments.

Reporting to a meeting of the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences, experimental psychologist George T. Haury told of three pre-space experiments.

One of these was conducted by McGill University scientists in Montreal. They wanted to find out what happened when sights, sounds and other sense stimuli were shut off. They closed male volunteers in cubicles for 48 hours.

One subject reported "a procession of squirrels with sacks over their shoulders marching purposefully across a snowfield."

Another said he saw a miniature rocket ship shooting pellets at his arm.

MINDS CONFUSED

In addition to having hallucinations, the volunteers became irritable and were unable to concentrate on complex ideas. The volunteers were amused by the visions at first—but later complained that they interfered with their sleep.

In another experiment, Haury confined 30 volunteers in cockpits and put them to work for 30 consecutive hours. They had to regulate and control certain occurrences using dials and buttons on instrument panels.

While allowed 20-minute breaks at meal times, they were not permitted to sleep.

These subjects also reported hallucinations such as:

"On several occasions, the instrument showed a hippopotamus smiling at me."

Another said he spent a good deal of time brushing away little men who kept swinging on the air speed indicator and preventing him from reading it.

"In space travel," said Haury, "the human operator will certainly be denied much of the sensory experience to which he is normally accustomed."

In addition, he'll have to do jobs that are highly repetitious. Unless certain dangers are recognized and corrected before man gets into space, the human element could be the most erratic component of a space travel system.

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—The 61-year-old handyman, David A. Jacobs, found in a state of "deep freeze" after lying for 13 hours in an ice-covered creek, died early today in hospital.

Circumstances of the death were not available until doctors have made a complete examination, a hospital spokesman said.

New Tax Bill Passed To Break Log-Jam

(From Times News Services)

OTTAWA — A final log-jam of sessional legislation was broken, leaving the House with only a handful of measures to deal with.

The government's new tax proposal to the provinces was passed Wednesday in a three-day debate, amid opposition censures of the way the Progressive Conservative administration ran it. At the same time the government gave final approval to a price supports bill following a brief repetition of the bill's bumpy passage in the House.

The upper chamber still must pass the tax measure. But at least the two big legislative items which were in the waning session should be ready for royal assent.

Commons big remaining to give formal approval to the tax measure. But at least the two big legislative items which were in the waning session should be ready for royal assent.

Wales Asks for Clear Policy

Mr. Knowles, deputy CCF leader, called for a clear government statement of future fiscal arrangements for the provinces. He said that the absence of a statement leaves the provinces in a state of uncertainty. He said the government will not "the real true-blue policy" of giving central provinces the share of the federal tax revenue. Assassination Try in Chou Revealed

CHESTER, Eng. (AP)—A Manchester Guardian says American-educated Chinese students tried to assassinate China's Premier Chou last July 28. The Guardian says it obtained information from a young man, now in England, who was in China at the time and associated indirectly with the assassination attempt. An informant, referred to by pseudonym "Mr. Li," said that although Chou escaped his life, there were indications that he was wounded or at least suffered from shock. The three would-be killers were executed, "Li" said.

Peas and Chou Revealed

Peiping radio last July 31 said Chou appeared on the platform that day before 20,000 people attending an Army Day celebration. Chou did not speak to the crowd, but apparently if he was the object of an assassination attempt three days before, he escaped with minor injuries or none at all.

(See Also Page 10)
Any problem handled by Attorney-General Robert Bonner has turned into a "fiasco," CCF member Leo Nimsick said in the legislature Wednesday.

Speaking just before Social Credit rebel Melvin Bryan, Mr. Nimsick said the attorney-general should have resigned when he finally ordered that criminal charges be laid against former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers. Because of his mishandling of the Vancouver police probe.

Govt. Loans For Teachers Proposed

VANCOUVER (CP)—The fourth annual British Columbia Education Conference Wednesday passed a resolution asking the provincial government to consider loans for student teachers.

The conference also suggested loans be wiped out after three years' teaching service. Another resolution asked the provincial and federal governments to institute an "adequate" scholarship system based on those of Britain and Australia. The conference also drew up another resolution for consideration at the national conference next month at Ottawa. It recommended school financing be more of a federal responsibility to improve standards on a nationwide basis, with grants on an equalization and per capita basis.

New Sunday Sport Ruling Aim of CCF Member's Bill

A private bill will be introduced in the Legislature this week by CCF member Gordon Dowling which would make Sunday sport possible in all B.C. municipalities.

The bill, which is not expected to be accepted by the government, provides that a plebiscite on the issue can be held if asked for by 10 per cent of the electorate.

If the vote was in favor of paid commercial sport on Sunday, the municipal council could pass an enabling by-law.

Horse racing is not included under the act, entitled the "Lord's Day (British Columbia) Act."

It is expected the Legislature will approve a Vancouver city charter amendment at this session allowing Sunday sport in the mainland city. The government has promised support for such a measure.

Voice of a Conscience

IN A STARTLING SPEECH IN the Legislature, Social Credit member John Melvin Bryan has called for the resignation of Social Credit Attorney-General Robert Bonner. The plaster which covered the cracks in the party's stand on Mr. Bonner's handling of the Sommers case has been washed away and the fissures stand glaringly revealed.

Mr. Bryan's reasons for calling for the attorney-general's resignation are exactly the same as those presented by this newspaper. To them is added a high sense of indignation. "I believed the assurances from the attorney-general..." Mr. Bryan said.

He was expressing general disillusionment when he added: "I know I am voicing the serious doubts of thousands of British Columbians when I question the present attorney-general's appreciation of the basic concepts inherent in the high office he holds."

Mr. Bryan has shown political courage in stating his honest belief. It remains to be seen if others of his party are similarly endowed.

Mr. Bonner should resign. But the issue should not end with Mr. Bonner's resignation.

Mr. Bonner, though chief law officer, is but the lieutenant of Premier Bennett. If the Premier did not know what Mr. Bonner was doing he was derelict in his duties as head of the government. If he did know, then he has no escape from shared responsibility.

The indictment delivered by Mr. Bryan in the silent House yesterday marks the fruition of processes Mr. Bennett and Mr. Bonner set in motion more than two years ago.

When the Sommers issue first arose, they had ample opportunity to bring it to a speedy conclusion. They were asked repeatedly to set up an independent agency to study material which cast grave reflections on a former minister of the Crown. They refused to follow this logical and honorable course.

If, during the time the question was discussed, they managed to convince their followers in the Legislature that they were in the right, that conviction no longer holds. It was broken by the man who said in reproach, "I believed the assurances of the attorney-general..."

The schism in the party ranks is evident. It is revealed by at least one member who is not prepared to violate his conscience in the interests of partisan political considerations.

They Listen to Thorneycroft

A MAN WHO NOW CALLS HIMSELF a "back-bencher" rose in the British Parliament the other day to restate his views on the means by which that country should fight inflation.

The attention given to the speaker, Mr. Peter Thorneycroft who resigned as chancellor of the exchequer because he disagreed with government policy for Britain's economic future, indicated the esteem in which he is held.

In Mr. Thorneycroft's opinion, a stable price level and growing productivity are the essentials for Britain's future, since together they can produce more real welfare than any government subsidies.

That is a viewpoint at variance with the theory that Britain will benefit most from full employment and a welfare state that should be cultivated even at the expense of a continuing gentle inflation.

The former chancellor of the exchequer holds that Britain has been trying to do too much in the last 12 years.

"I can see no future for this country in constantly attempting more than our resources can achieve," he says.

Mr. Thorneycroft's attitude has gained headway at least to the extent that Lord Hailsham, Lord President of the Council in Prime Minister Macmillan's government and chairman of the Conservative Party, has suggested re-appraisal of Britain's "welfare state."

The party chairman's proposal discloses that the "welfare state" is no longer sacrosanct and beyond discussion or criticism.

Lord Hailsham has asked Conservatives how many of the things Britons need ought to be provided by a prudent man out of his own weekly wages. He has raised other questions, among them:

How many of these necessities should be provided by the taxation of his fellow citizens?

How many of the misfortunes of life ought to be cared for on the insurance principle?

To what extent should this be voluntary, state-aided, or compulsory?

How far should the elderly be self-financed in a society such as Britain's?

Should university education carry with it a right of universal free maintenance irrespective of the ability of parents to pay?

Does the British public fully realize that its road system is being seriously held up by the burden on finances caused by the welfare state, that its sewage disposal is becoming a scandal, that insufficient is spent on research and education for the same reasons?

These are searching questions. But their importance is not restricted solely to substance. They are significant because questioning itself, not so long ago, would have been politically dangerous.

They seem to imply a willingness to consider the Thorneycroft argument that there is no future for Britain "in constantly attempting more than our resources can achieve."

Mr. Thorneycroft has stepped down from his cabinet post, but not out of Conservative affairs. He appears a loyal and steady party man, prepared to support the government and quite unwilling to lead a revolt.

Lord Hailsham's speech seems to assure him a continuing and growing importance in the political life of Britain.

Thrown to the Wolves

AS WAS TO BE EXPECTED, the Federal Government's move to give the provinces a larger share of the income tax field has won it little thanks.

The British Columbia Government, in particular, is dissatisfied with the new offer. The confusion arising from Mr. Fleming's original announcement, as a result of which British Columbia and Prince Edward Island will get less than they had been led to expect, adds nothing to the appeal of the federal offer.

Some of the provinces, notably Ontario and Quebec, stand to gain appreciably under the new formula which allows them 13 per cent of the federal income tax field compared with today's 10 per cent limit.

But the whole problem of federal-provincial financial relations still awaits the forthcoming conference of federal and provincial leaders. This conference looms as one of the major headaches of the Diefenbaker administration—one which the Prime Minister would gladly postpone until after the election which is expected sometime this year.

For at this meeting the generous promises made to Ontario in return for Premier Frost's help in the campaign of last June will come home to roost. And with them will come demands from the other provinces for equally generous treatment.

Last week's announcement will in no sense meet that situation, although the intention may be to stall off the conference until a more propitious time. If it is to be held before the general election the difficulties to be encountered by the Government in meeting provincial demands from a budget which already is expected to show a deficit could prove exceedingly embarrassing.

Taken in conjunction with the problems of unemployment and foreign trade, they could prove disastrous.

Centennial Blind Project

A CENTENNIAL PROJECT which will strike a responsive chord in the hearts of all Victorians is the projected low-rental housing development for aged blind couples, the first of its kind in Canada.

As outlined here recently by the gallant Captain M. C. "Robbie" Robinson, western director of the CNIB, the village will be built on Humboldt Street, on attractive property, and will feature a fragrant garden which will be enjoyed by the blind and their visiting friends.

Total cost of the project is set at $135,000, of which sum $110,000 is already in the estimates. The Provincial Government is providing $42,000 and the CNIB $20,000. Mortgage financing, set at a figure which will keep the rents low, will make up the difference.

There remains a cash sum of $25,000 to be realized in this area.

Here is a Centennial year project which business, industry or a service club might well undertake. Few organizations in Canada enjoy more widespread admiration than the CNIB. That it should choose Victoria, in this Centennial year, as the site of its first venture into low-rental housing for aged blind couples is a decision meriting our sympathetic support.

Trying to Split the Team

FROM WASHINGTON By WALTER LIPPMANN

Half Way to the Summit

THE United States is now engaged, as all the world knows, in negotiating with the Russians on the question of how we can negotiate with the Russians. This is a question which lends itself to a certain confusion, and to that confusion Mr. Hagerty in some remarks on the television program "Face the Nation" has now made a contribution.

Until the President's secretary spoke it had been generally taken for granted that the President's position, as established by Secretary Dulles, is that he will not meet Mr. Khrushchev at the summit until Mr. Dulles has negotiated agreements which can be approved. The idea was supposed to be that the President and Mr. Khrushchev would meet at the summit not to negotiate the big issues but to approve agreements on some of them which had already been negotiated.

But if Mr. Hagerty on Sunday was not talking out of turn, this is not the President's position. For if what Mr. Hagerty said is what the President means, he is "ready to meet in a summit meeting" if Mr. Dulles and the other foreign ministers can "agree on what we can discuss."

And Mr. Hagerty went on to say, according to the newspaper reports, that "they do not have to reach agreement" even, it appears, on the areas of discussion—"as the President said, we would merely like to know what we would like to discuss."

Only a List

This sounds as if the President was ready to go to the summit with nothing more agreed upon than a list of topics that the Russians and we ourselves would like to discuss. Mr. Hagerty cannot have meant that, or if he did mean it, he will soon be hearing from Mr. Dulles.

For Mr. Dulles, quite rightly in my view, is not likely to let the President go to a meeting with Mr. Khrushchev until it has become certain that they can reach an acceptable agreement on something that has substance and significance.

Mr. Hagerty's off-hand remarks on the television program are not a state document for which he can be held strictly accountable. But there is a certain plausibility in thinking that he has here reflected, perhaps inadvertently, something like the spirit of the President's personal attitude as distinguished from the letter of the Dulles official line.

The basic issue is whether to negotiate down below and then to meet at the summit, or to meet at the summit and then negotiate down below.

On this issue there are two schools of thought. There is what we may call the orthodox school which is represented not only by Mr. Dulles but also by Mr. Kennan, by President Heuss of Germany and by the great majority of professional diplomats and experienced observers in foreign affairs.

They distrust and dislike spectacular meetings at the summit except to celebrate agreements reached quietly down below.

But there is another school, which may conceivably be the modern school, who are entitled to great respect even if one does not follow them. They hold that the only way to promote fruitful and serious negotiations down below is to give them a push from the summit. They would like, therefore, to have a meeting at the summit in the hope that it will cause substantial negotiations to begin down below.

New Argument

Their argument, which was new to me until I heard it recently, is that in dealing with a dictatorship like that in the Soviet Union, nothing can be initiated and nothing can be decided except by the small oligarchy at the top.

Until the leading members of this ruling oligarchy can make personal contact with the men at the top with whom they have to negotiate, they must depend on their complicated and rather wooden bureaucracy not merely for their information on the outside world but for their understanding of what the information means.

Therefore, they want to hear in a face to face meeting from Eisenhower personally what the American policy really is, and not to be dependent upon reports of ambassadors written, presumably, in the bureaucratic jargon and with the stereotypes of the party line.

On this ground there is a case to be made for what might be described as a brief, preliminary and exploratory meeting at the summit for the purpose of initiating serious diplomatic negotiations down below.

Central Point

It seems to me a strong case but not a conclusive one. For there may be ways of dealing with the central point of this argument, which has very considerable force, without the risks and disadvantages of an improvised meeting at the summit.

One of these ways might be to have Vice-President Nixon visit Moscow during his promised trip to Europe this summer. That might be taken by Mr. Khrushchev as evidence that the President was willing to begin by meeting him half-way. And the Vice-President might bring back with him some fresh impressions of what the Russians intend. (Copy, 1958 N.Y. Herald Tribune Inc.)

Fluoridation for All

When Dr. Bates, mentioned in your editorial of Jan. 27, who dubs opponents of fluoridation "fanatics" and other opprobrious observances, prescribes castor oil for Junior does he insist that "all his sisters and his cousins and his aunts" must take the same dose also? Does he?

This is absurdity de profundis, because the principle of mass medication by fluoridating a community water supply is precisely the same, only infinitely more compelling, for everybody, from the newly born infant to the oldest inhabitant, must partake of it in food and drink whether they want it or not.

There is no possible escape, until the day they rise in rebellion to give it the boot, as so many cities have done after discovering their costly mistake.

What's on Their Heads?

At this time of the year some Provincial Legislative Assemblies are being opened by lieutenant-governors who are received by guards of honor in full dress. Here are some historical notes on special headdresses from reliable sources.

Over 50 years ago some of our famous regiments still wore traditional headdresses, for instance the bearskin of the Foot Guards, the coonskin of the Fusiliers and the feather bonnet of the Highlanders.

The bearskins were made from the black bear and after the Second World War a supply was obtained from Prince George, in number 500, more than two caps could be made one skin. It has been stated in English papers that grizzly bears were used for the Guards, but that absurd for the skin is not smooth.

The Fusiliers have caps made of coon skins, with a brass badge front. The Hussars and Royal Artillery also used coon skins.

Feather bonnets and the "k worn in "full dress" and "Glen in "undress" by the following five land Regiments: Black Watch border scarlet, white and dark Seaforth, Cameron and Gordon diced border; Argyll and Sutherland diced border scarlet and white.

The bonnet consists of a Scottish cap (with a "diced" border open at the top) on which is a wire framework covered with ostrich feathers except on the right where the framework is hidden four "tails" of ostrich feathers, hang down this side of the head on the left side is a metal socket in which is worn a tall "Hackle" Scottish regiments which wear the Kilmanock bonnet in the old shako. This bonnet is also as undress order of dress, in H regiments. In 1914 Victoria Fusilier Regiment in the 88th F who had full dress.

JACK SHADBOLT REPLIES

The Artist and the Critic

A FRIEND has sent me the forthright review by Moncrieff Williamson of my current exhibition at the Greater Victoria Art Gallery.

May I thank you for the generous space allowed to this review and thank Mr. Williamson for an intelligent appraisal which, nevertheless, left one or two impressions which I feel need modifying.

I am not sure how my exhibition was presented but I wished it to be made expressly clear that the group of landscapes from Menton were specifically straightforward paintings which I did on location during the first two or three months in a new surrounding in order to familiarize myself with all the new detail, the land formations, the kind of foliage and houses, the typical color and light and so on.

I had no pre-fixed approach here but was just enjoying direct contact, letting the emphasis take what course it would. Later I found that I could not achieve the intensity of the amazing new experiences of texture and color until I built a more synthesized image of each condensed experience.

I began to concentrate entirely, in each separate canvas, on one specific aspect held in close focus for abstract inspection. In these canvases the traces of actual objects were almost completely absorbed, leaving only a few token markings to tell the context.

By far the bulk of the paintings were of this kind and most of the landscapes were thus boiled down transformed by re-working.

The group in Victoria contain that were left in their direct state cause I liked them for what they are and for me they carry great no. But they are not the whole story.

When I went away I left all conceived notions behind me. I know what medium I would not turned out I needed oils these magnificent new textures haunted me.

Mr. Moncrieff scolds me for to be French and later points out my work is not French anyway. Not trying to be anything but wistful to a fresh new experience. Th why my wife and I sought out the terranean—to give the senses a in the sunlight and clear color—understand a whole new way of the old French towns.

Would it not have been foolish to take along the familiar water and come back having missed the of a lifetime to extend my range?

As for there being no heat paintings of Collioure. Has Mr. V son been in Collioure in the late of storms and rain? There is a wonderful light but there is also a damp atmosphere which we encountered, because I had no fire, recalled my memory into the Cornish fishing villages w painted in 1944.

We were only in Collioure f months and these few paintings done in the last two weeks. I can find a settled, approach, waver between dramatic pictorialism and tion. Besides, it was too soon at Riviera exoticism and the imp Venice and the Ravenna mosaics could not clear my mind.

Yet does it matter whether I are French or Canadian or have I am damp? They are what the Each one exists for what it is in I sent to Victoria pictures which were each complete and vital f Their grouping is coincidental a to be taken seriously.

May I congratulate your ci having, in people like Colin G Moncrieff Williamson and Tony the best art criticism in the cour

Freedom: All or Nothing

The Right of the People, by William O. Douglas. (New York: Doubleday & Co. 238 pp. $4.)

By ROBERT R. BRUNN
(The Christian Science Monitor)

"UNLESS the horizons are unlimited, we risk being governed by a set of prejudices of a by-gone day. If we are restricted in art, religion, economics, political theory, or any other great field of knowledge, we may become victims of conformity in an age where salvation can be won only by nonconformity."

When William O. Douglas, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, writes of freedom of the words ring. He has been uncompromising in asserting the dignity of man which he relates to the moral and religious aspect. And because he sits on a court which is reminding the nation that the past decade's record on individual rights is not one to be proud of, this book, which takes these rights as its theme, is absorbing.

No Such Thing

There is no such thing as partial freedom or a little freedom. The freedom of speech, press, and religion, the right of privacy, support one another. If one is breached the others are immediately threatened. Mr. Justice Douglas is so convinced of this that he goes at length into discussing the Communist Party of the United States and the right of persons to belong to it.

This is a good example of his fierce devotion to "the right of the people" to govern and not be governed by the state. In these lectures delivered at Franklin and Marshall College last spring he examines the roots of individual rights, their meaning, and threats to their full vigor in the American democracy.

Never hesitant, he comments on the nation about him with force. Speaking of the last decade with its press, conform and its abridgments of he says, "We were largely victims of tyranny of a few who were beaten drums of fear."

He says that J. Robert Oppen was "driven out" during a "virtual hunt." And today he deplores the "Secretary Dulles toward Communist China, and a, feels is downright governmental, surrounding the facts about "the ling and awful disaster that can humanity if a nuclear war comes.

Three Lectures

His three lectures are titled "F of Expression," "The Right to be and "The Civilian Authority." first he considers the philosophy First Amendment and its conflict other community values; and cens. In the next he examines the r privacy, legislative investigations, religious freedom, the dignity o, and the right to defy an unconstitutional statute.

The last lecture is perhaps the timely for in it he reveals a c about the rising role of the milit American peacetime life. He fee Anglo-American governmental hist veals an "aversion to the milita; more than half of the budget de now being spent on defence. Wh this mean for the freedoms of the can way of life?

Certainly thoughtful American been asking this question with creasing frequency. Minds accu to almost unquestioning obedien control from the top, are hardly t that should shape American policy. In fact, it often appears th old soldier Dwight Eisenhower leaned backward to avoid action could be called "military authori in his presidential leadership fo very reason that his critics are i for it.

Forests Adviser Post Criticized

Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook) accused the government Wednesday of having an "ulterior motive" in appointing Gordon Sloan as government forests adviser.

The government apparently felt, Mr. Nimsick said, that because of the former chief justice's great reputation throughout the province, opposition members would be hesitant to criticize forestry policy.

The CCF member criticized the appointment because he said it put the civil service "in a corner" by putting another man above it on a pedestal.

The appointment was "scandalous on the face of it," he said, because the top civil servant receives $15,000 a year, while Mr. Sloan is being paid $50,000.

If some of the experts in the B.C. Forest Service were given the same powers as Mr. Sloan, they could do the job just as well.

BRISTOL, Eng. (Reuters) — A Britannia airliner's automatic pilot went berserk and tried to take over from the two human pilots in a violent mid-air battle, a Bristol Aircraft Company spokesman said today.

Presbytery Urges Pulp Strike End

Resolutions urging "early settlement" of the pulp and paper strike in B.C. and asking churchgoers to make jobs available to unemployed workmen were passed by Victoria Presbytery of the United Church of Canada Wednesday.

The spring session for more than 75 lay and clerical representatives ends today at Oak Bay United Church.

At Wednesday's meeting, delegates called on management and unions within the pulp and paper industry "to make concessions in existing demands and offers that are even sacrificial in the interest of the common good."

The resolution will be sent to labor and management representatives at present negotiating in Vancouver over wages, early 2,000 workers on the island have been idled by the week-old strike.

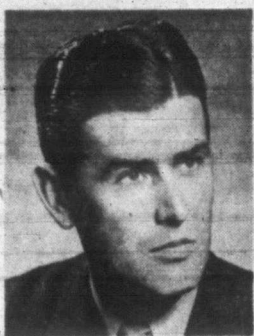

It was introduced by the evangelism and social service committee headed by Rev. A. I. Verry of St. Aidan's United Church.

A second resolution, passed unanimously by the presbytery, urged "the people of our church who are able to do so to make casual work available to unemployed persons in their own communities through the carrying out of renovations, repairs, new construction and the like to homes and business premises."

It expressed "appreciation to the municipal, provincial and federal governments for the relief measures they have taken to meet the urgent need of the unemployed," but encouraged the governments to "extend and multiply financial assistance and work programs to meet the growing need."

The resolutions will be sent to municipal governments on Vancouver Island, the provincial government and the federal government.

HEART ATTACK FATAL

B.C.-Born Economist Hope Dies

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. Ernest C. Hope, 57, economist for the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, died suddenly in hospital early today.

Here for the annual convention of the federation, Dr. Hope was stricken with a heart attack in his hotel room about 2 a.m. He was rushed to hospital where he died about 3 a.m.

With the federation for about 10 years, Dr. Hope was one of Canada's best-known economists. Previously he had been economist for the Progressive Conservative party.

Dr. Hope was a familiar figure in government circles. He prepared and submitted briefs on behalf of the CFA to the federal and other governments, to royal commissions and to bodies such as the board of transport commissioners.

He was working on a new CFA brief to present to the federal government next week. It was being based on resolutions adopted at the meeting here.

Dr. Hope, a native of Langley, B.C., graduated from the University of British Columbia in 1924 and obtained his doctor's degree at Cornell University. His brother, Alex, is a former member of the British Columbia legislature and director of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture.

Funeral services will be held in Ottawa Saturday with interment at North Gower, Ont., near Ottawa.

... HUTCHISON

Mr. Eisenhower has proposed to increase total spending by a modest two billion dollars, to raise military appropriations and to postpone many civilian projects which he thinks the nation cannot afford at present.

This program is based on the assumption that the recession will not prove very serious, that a small trickle of extra expenditure will quickly prime the pump.

The Congress almost certainly will not accept the president's advice. It objects—especially in a year of congressional elections—to any economies in such things as public works and, in the current cliché, asks why the government should build dams in Asia and refuse to build them in the United States.

Thus many of the civilian economies suggested by the president will be rejected by the Congress, but it will not reduce, and may increase, the appropriations for the armed services, particularly for missiles.

The end result can hardly fail to be a much larger budget than Mr. Eisenhower desires at the moment. And the budget will be larger still if spring produces no upturn in business.

Under those conditions the government would not object to heavy deficits but would deliberately incur them at the expense of raising the present legal debt limit.

Sold on Theory

For this government, like free governments everywhere, is entirely sold on Keynes' theory that a blood transfusion of state spending can quickly cure economic anaemia.

Since the budget will not be completed until late spring or early summer, since the Congress is eager to spend heavily in an election year, and since the experts cannot tell yet how much spending is necessary to end the recession, all fiscal policy in Washington today is purely tentative and subject to quick, massive change.

It is clear, however, that the mind of the government has changed completely since last summer when, in the pursuit of a balanced budget, and imprisoned by a legal debt ceiling, the president curtailed military spending, unaware that Russia was about to launch Sputnik.

This effort of economy was carried so far, so quickly and in such confusion that it got out of hand administratively.

In some airplane plants, for example, the manufacturers, instead of the government, actually decided what planes they would build and what work they would lay aside, regardless of military considerations. This is part of the tragic story which culminated in a shift of the world power balance in Russia's favor.

Not Enough

Today the government could get all the money it wanted for defence and Congress suspects that it is not asking for enough.

This would be true even if business were booming. When business is no longer booming, when unemployment is mounting, when Congress is hearing from its constituents and preparing to face an autumn election, the seed planted here by Keynes in 1933 is sprouting anew.

The enemies of the New Deal already are spending far more than its friends ever spent and, if necessary, are prepared to run deficits that would terrify Roosevelt.

Yet the problem here is far more complicated than a simple equation of expenditure and revenue. It is complicated in the first place by the paradox of a continuing inflation in the midst of a recession and by a new drive to restrict imports—a prospect acutely dangerous to Canada. It will be outlined in a later dispatch from Washington.

'I Would Vote Exactly as I Spoke'—Bryan

Social Credit MLA Mel Bryan says the thought never occurred to him that he might be kicked out of the party for demanding the resignation of Attorney-General Bonner.

"I can't believe the question would come up," he said in an interview after dropping his bombshell in the legislature Wednesday afternoon.

"My remarks to the legislature are my answer to the question—I simply had to place principles ahead of an appearance of party unity."

"And I say 'appearance' of unity, because as I said, I am sure that thousands of this government's supporters feel exactly as I do on the question."

Mr. Bryan said he has given no thought to his next move.

"I got my own feelings off my chest, and I haven't even thought of what my next move might be. Naturally if the issue I discussed ever became the subject of a vote, I would vote exactly as I spoke today."

"But that doesn't mean that I wouldn't support the government on other matters in which the principle isn't involved. Only time will tell."

Mr. Bryan said he doesn't expect that his bold action will result "immediately" in other Social Credit MLAs taking the same stand.

He said he had received no pledge of support from any other of his colleagues. In fact he had never discussed the matter with any of them outside the caucus room, Mr. Bryan said.

When it was suggested to him that his action might lead to the collapse of the Bennett government, and he was asked "do you want that?" Mr. Bryan replied emphatically "no."

Mr. Bryan said that if Attorney-General Bonner resigned, it would strengthen the government "considerably."

He said his present attitude toward Mr. Bonner's position began when the attorney-general ordered that criminal charges be laid in the bribery conspiracy case last November.

At that time, Mr. Bryan said, the attorney-general contradicted his original statements dismissing the charges when they were first made in December, 1955.

"When the charges were first made, the attorney-general should have cleared the matter up—one way or the other. He should have got it out in the open."

Asked what action he thought Mr. Bonner should have taken originally, Mr. Bryan suggested a royal commission inquiry.

The North Vancouver member said he wanted to stress that in taking his stand, "I was speaking for myself and not for any association or group. But I also think I was speaking for many, many other British Columbia citizens who have supported the government on everything else."

Mr. Bryan said he had not consulted the North Vancouver Social Credit Constituency Association before making his statement.

"I don't believe the (association) members would expect me to ask for guidance on such a basic principle as that I described in the House."

Mr. Bryan said he was quite prepared to defend his stand to his local association at any time.

TEXT OF MLA BRYAN'S STATEMENT ON BONNER

Text of statement on Attorney-General Robert Bonner by Mel Bryan, Secred MLA for North Vancouver, follows:

I have several matters to discuss concerning my riding but before doing that I wish to address myself to one of the major issues facing this province today.

I want to speak about a question that has been causing extreme concern to people not only in my riding but to the people of British Columbia.

I want to make it clear that I am not dealing with or commenting on the details of a case before the court.

Over two years ago, statements were made concerning the operation of our great forest industry and the government of this province.

They were given wide publicity. They led eventually to the resignation of a minister from the cabinet, and a veritable storm of public controversy, court actions and counter-actions.

Now Part of Record

It is not my intention to discuss the allegations, although they are now part of public record. The chain of subsequent developments led to charges which are now being adjudicated—where thousands of British Columbians felt they should have been adjudicated a long time ago, in the courts of our land. The outcome of this case as a British Columbian has no bearing on what I have to say.

What concerns the people of this province, and has concerned them with greater intensity as time went on, has been the unsatisfactorily explained delay in resolving this issue on the part of the minister charged with law enforcement and with maintaining the legal dignity of this government.

I refer to the delay by the honorable, the attorney-general. I speak for myself, and I believe, for thousands of people who have supported this government, Mr. Speaker, in expressing the solemn belief that the attorney-general of this province has failed to carry out his duties with the speed and efficiency his position demands.

Principle at Stake

I may also remind those who do not share these views of mine that a very important principle is at stake here, a very precious principle—and one I am not prepared to sacrifice in the interests of party unity.

Here was developed a fundamental issue that should have been dealt with without any concern for political questions, or party loyalties.

The people of this province have been assured ever since 1952 that the government they now place their trust in represents something new, clean and sincere—a new concept of government, totally unlike the previous administrations in this province.

I believe, generally, the people charged with governing

Sound and Fury

I was one of the candidates who fought for this government in the provincial election campaign of 1956. I believed the assurances from the attorney-general that there was more sound and fury than substance in the allegations concerning the government's administration of our greatest basic industry.

I and candidates like me, were assured by the attorney-general's statement that the allegations were "far-fetched."

Mr. Speaker, people are puzzled by the fast-moving chain of events of recent months. First a commission-type of inquiry was set up to probe the allegations. Then, it was hastily abandoned in favor of outright charges of conspiracy against several persons.

And all this, we must assume, Mr. Speaker, was based on the same sequence of events and circumstances that our attorney-general so blandly dismissed last year and the year before.

What happened, Mr. Speaker, to change his concept of law enforcement so drastically?

It goes without saying that a cabinet minister's observance of his oath of office must be above reproach—must, like Caesar's wife, certainly be above suspicion.

Serious Doubts

I know I am voicing the serious doubts of thousands of British Columbians when I question the present attorney-general's appreciation of the basic concepts inherent in the high office he holds.

His attitude during the past two years indicates, at least, a stubborn reluctance to forego his apparent belief that it wasn't necessary to establish Caesar's wife above suspicion—not until developments threatened Caesar himself.

This is a grave moment for me, Mr. Speaker, and one I have reached only after the most serious consideration and soul-searching, both for the government I have supported and for my own position.

My considerations leave me with no alternative, to an honest conviction that the attorney-general of this province has shown a great lack of ability to fulfill all the requirements of his high post and should resign his duties in favor of someone who can.

MLAs REACTIONS

'Act of Courage, Poor Timing, Very Sound'

Reaction among MLAs to the dramatic statement by Social Credit member Mel Bryan calling for the resignation of Attorney-General Bonner was as expected: It brought applause from the opposition, frowns from government members.

I'm very sorry that it happened," said Social Credit whip Bert Price. "I don't see any gain to the member, the public, and certainly not to the members on the government side."

"It was an act of courage that should be appreciated by his constituents," said Tony Gargrave (CCF-Mackenzie).

George Gregory, Liberal member for Victoria, said it was a "courageous stand that will be long remembered."

"It was poor timing," said Cyril Shelford (SC-Omineca). "In the democratic system under which we operate, he has a right to say what he wants."

Statement 'Very Sound'—Harding
"It was a very sound and studied statement," said Randolph Harding (CCF-Kaslo-Slocan).

"I was rather surprised to see one of the government members bring it up. I only hope we'll hear more from the government members in this regard."

"It was an interesting afternoon," commented Dan Campbell (SC-Campbell River).

Mr. Gregory said there was "great significance" in the fact that demands made in the House previously by Liberal members have now been echoed by a Social Credit member.

The Liberal member said that since Mr. Bonner's trade mission trip to Europe last fall he would be giving up the attorney-general's job to concentrate on the portfolio of trade and industry.

"It would not surprise me if today's developments force the premier to demand Mr. Bonner's resignation from the cabinet entirely."

Mr. Gregory said he didn't said J. Donald Smith, Social Credit member for Victoria.

"It's good to rock the boat sometimes to make sure it's seaworthy," said John Tisdalle (SC-Saanich), "but not to punch a hole in the bottom of it."

Mr. Tisdalle said he didn't agree with Mr. Bryan.

"I don't believe the attorney-general has been derelict in his duty," the Saanich member said.

Herb Bruch (SC-Esquimalt), said Mr. Bryan "has a right to his opinion," but until the Somers case is completed it is not right to adjudicate on whether the attorney-general's actions have been right or wrong.

Don Robinson (SC-Lilloet) said he didn't believe any other Social Credit members feel the same way as Mr. Bryan.

Because Social Credit is a democratic movement, the member had a right to say what he pleased, Mr. Robinson said.

"I see no reason why he shouldn't be allowed back in the caucus."

Party whip Price defended the attorney-general against the charges made by the North Vancouver member.

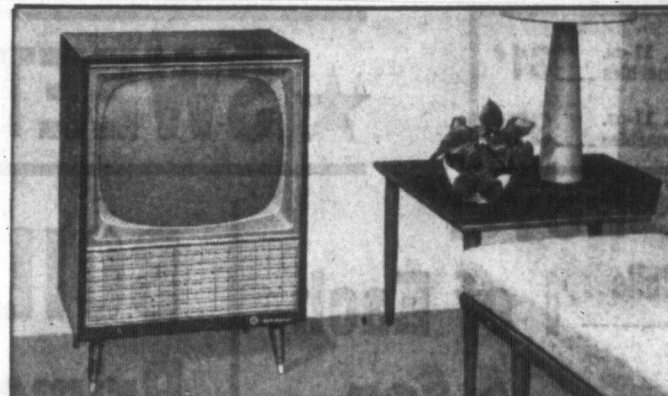

"The mere fact of a member attacking a cabinet minister is his privilege," Mr. Price said. "But to fight a minister who can't fight back puts it in a different light."

"His speech inferred the attorney-general is part of some conspiracy, whereas the attorney-general has had to carry a terrific load in this case—none of which was of his own doing."

There was no doubt that New Westminster's Hugh Barlow (right) wasn't welcome around Victoria goal during Wednesday night's hockey game at Memorial Arena as Art Hart (15) and Rags Raglan (6) appear ready to club Royal forward as he swings

Hawks Still Have Chance While Leafs Stay Around

THE SCOREBOARD BY Harry Grayson

NEW YORK (NEA)—The New York baseball writers honored Babe Hamberger at his pre-dinner party.

Joseph Julius Hamberger—Zack Wheat nicknamed him Babe when he was a 14-year-old batboy—spent 37 of his 51 years at Ebbets Field, and for the last 30 has been the man to see if you wanted something done there. Hamberger, the Original Artful Dodger, has in turn been clubhouse attendant, announcer, travelling secretary and ticket department man.

As an announcer who graduated from megaphone to loud-speaker, Hamberger became famous for such original lines as "A small child has been found lost."

When fiery Larry MacPhail took over the Brooklyn club in the spring of 1938, he couldn't open Ebbets Field until he found Hamberger, the only one with a key to the turnstiles.

Hamberger knows more secrets of the fabled Dodgers—in bad times and good—than anybody else. There wasn't a thing he didn't do, even to setting up a sewing machine next to the clubhouse when the bankrupt outfit trained at Orlando, Fla., in the mid-1930's. When not looking after the athletes otherwise, he was patching up old uniforms.

Larry MacPhail passed up a big baseball shindig in Baltimore and came up from his Glen A. Pugs Farm at Bel Air, Md., to toss a few bouquets Handyman Hamberger's way at the New York writers' affair. The fabulous redhead related how while Babe was the most cheerful man in the borough, he was deathly serious about anything have to do with the Dodgers.

BABE HAMBERGER
"Secrets of fabled club"

When Joe Medwick was beamed early in 1940, eight days after the Dodgers had given the Cardinals $125,000 in cash and players for the slugger, MacPhail really went to work on the baseball helmet. Experimenting with 100 different types, Dr. George Bennett, the baseball surgeon, and MacPhail, after consulting a brain specialist, came up with a helmet which they believed protected all the vital areas.

"Illustrating how strong baseball tradition is, few players were willing to try the new helmet," recalled MacPhail. "Only Dolph Camill, Peter Reiser and another Dodger or two volunteered."

"I sought some way to demonstrate to the players that the helmet offered absolute protection, but no suggestions were forthcoming, until Babe Hamberger stepped up."

"If you'll assure me that I won't get hurt, boss," he said, "I'll put on one of those things and let Kirby Higbe (our fastest pitcher) throw at my head. That ought to convince those dumbbells!"

Like more-storied Dodgers, Babe was perfectly willing to be hit on the head for his ball club.

You heard all the old familiar Dodger tales at the pre-dinner party—about incomparable Babe Herman, three men on third base and the bird flying out of Casey Stengel's cap.

But the best news to the New York writers was that Babe Hamberger will be with them for at least another year—running the Dodgers' office at Ebbets Field.

That will make the Dodgers in Los Angeles even more unlike than they were when taxi drivers told Uncle Wilbert Robinson who to pitch.

Toe Still Mystified

MONTREAL (CP)—Bernie The 27-year-old rightwinger Boom Boom Geoffrion was reported in satisfactory condition Wednesday night while coach Toe Blake expressed mystification as to the cause of a bowel rupture that necessitated a major operation upon the hockey star.

"I am convinced that any minor knock or bump wasn't the cause," said Blake. "It seems to me there may have been some internal weakness."

"Bernie has complained lately about his stomach and said he had pains."

WILLIE HAS SEVEN SHOTS AT No. 3,000

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Jockey Willie Shoemaker has seven trips at bat today to hit or pass the 3,000 mark for winning races.

The 26-year-old riding star reached 2,999 Wednesday at Santa Anita Park with a pair of victories—the last in the eighth race thanks to a disqualification.

Willie the Shoe will become the sixth jockey in United States history to reach the 3,000 mark.

Ahead of him are Johnny Longden, with 5,090; Eddie Arcaro, second with 3,994, and trailing behind in order, Ted Atkinson, Johnny Adams and Ralph Nevins.

All of the sextet except Shoemaker have been riding for 20 years or more. Shoemaker scored his first victory less than nine years ago—on April 20, 1949.

Campy's Feeling Better; Regaining Arm Strength

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (UP)—Roy Campanella must be getting better. He's even cracking jokes.

Campanella's wife, Ruth, the only one permitted to visit the hospitalized 36-year-old Los Angeles Dodger catcher so far, said today her husband "looks much more cheerful" and even was "able to tell jokes."

The statement coincided with the latest hospital bulletin which said, "Roy's condition is somewhat better. Strength and movement is beginning to return to his hands. Feeling is present throughout his arms, hands and upper chest although his legs remain paralyzed."

It was the most encouraging bulletin issued by officials of community hospital since Campanella was admitted early Tuesday after suffering a broken neck in a near fatal auto accident.

Although Harry Gifford, the hospital administrator, indicated Campanella is recuperating faster than was originally expected, he emphasized that the ball player still is on the critical list.

"And since he is on the critical list, a nurse is in constant 24-hour attendance," explained another hospital official.

Dodger secretary Lee Scott, speaking on behalf of Dr. Robert W. Sengstaken, who performed a four-hour operation on Campanella Tuesday, said that Roy for the first time "was fed intravenously" Wednesday.

Blueline Corps Critics Due for Argument Today

Cougar Defence Sparkles As Francis Blanks Royals

Cougars 2, Royals 0
Victoria Cougars' blueline brigade, often maligned during the current Western Hockey League season, can critics today.

The Victoria defence corps, and a little guy named Emile Francis, expertly spiked the New Westminster scoring guns to the complete satisfaction of 1,915 fans at Memorial Arena Wednesday night and paved the way for a 2-0 victory over the Royals.

It must be admitted they made some mistakes and were given some able checking assistance from their forwards, but it was definitely a night for defence—and Emile.

One measure of their effectiveness may be gleaned from the fact that in none of the 14 earlier games with the Royals this season would two goals have given the Cougars a win. Once, two goals would have salvaged a tie.

Brightest note in the rearguard's improved effort was the manner in which they avoided their usual tendency of bunching in pursuit of the puck, thus getting caught out of position and often leaving rival triggermen unmarked in front of the net.

Perhaps helped by Emile's shrill pleas and coach Pat Egan's bellowing orders to "stay in front," the Cats gave the Royals little elbow room and forced them to hurry most of their shots. And when the Royals had their shots on target, they found Francis at his best. The little netminder, especially in the third period, was hopping around like a kitty with a hotfoot and fully earned his second shutout.

Egan, who was directing a light practice session this morning, should have had little difficulty in convincing his charges of the value of hustle. The burly coach could point to a convincing demonstration, staged while the Cougars were playing short-handed in Wednesday's second period.

With Royals pressing while Denny Olson was sitting out a hooking penalty, the Cats batted the puck into centre ice and Eddie Dorohoy, refusing to concede possession, finally wrestled it away from defenceman Ron Matthews on the right boards.

As Dorohoy carried into the New Westminster zone and drew the other defenceman, Egan barreled up from behind, arrived in time to take the Pistol's pass and hit the left side of the goal to put the Cougars ahead in a game that might have gone either way.

Dorohoy made it a two-point evening when he combined with Olson and Gordie Haworth to fire his 27th goal of the season past Bev Bentley and give the Cats their 2-0 edge at 8:08 of the fast-moving third period.

Royals weren't prepared to howl out without an argument and gave the Cougars several anxious times in the remaining stages, particularly while Doug Macaulay was serving most of the last two minutes for an interference penalty.

Defeat left the Royals five points behind the front-running Canucks in the league's Coast Division while Cougars trimmed the distance behind Seattle Americans to 22 points.

The Cats get a chance to slice another two points off the deficit and another opportunity to exhibit their defensive skill when they host the Americans at Memorial Arena Saturday in a game they have to win to retain any reasonable hope of a playoff spot.

FLYERS' LITTLE GENERAL HEEDS CALL FROM WINGS

EDMONTON (CP)—Tony Leswick, the little general who spent four years with Detroit Red Wings, is going back to the National Hockey League club for another whirl.

Leswick, playing coach of Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League this season after a year as Flyer captain, is to join the Red Wings for a Saturday night game in Toronto.

Flyer general manager Bud Poile announced today that Leswick had agreed to rejoin the Wings after a request from Detroit coach Syd Abel.

Red Wings will send Metro Prystai to Flyers to replace Leswick as a player. Poile, who coached Flyers until the end of last season, will handle the coaching at least temporarily.

KILBURN GETS 200TH GOAL

Colin's Capers Part of Show

EDMONTON (CP)—Colin Kilburn scored the 200th goal of his professional career Wednesday night but it was almost lost in the shuffle as Edmonton Flyers defeated Saskatoon-St. Paul Regals 11-7 in a wild-scoring Western Hockey League game that produced 11 goals in the third period.

Flyer forwards accounted for 29 scoring points and Saskatoon players 18 as the clubs raced from end to end in wide-open, free-wheeling hockey that had the 5,540 "Young Canada Hockey Night" fans dizzy.

The victory lifted Flyers into a first-place tie with Winnipeg Warriors in the league's prairie division. Regals remained in third place.

Kilburn got two goals in the game, his first in Edmonton since he was traded to Flyers about two weeks ago. His second was the 200th he has scored since turning professional seven seasons ago. He dug the puck out from a scramble in front of the net and pushed it into the open side for No. 200.

Len Lunde was the individual scoring star, getting three goals, two on breakaways. But the line of Kilburn, Gerry Melnyk and Chuck Holmes added up the most points—17 in all. Each of the three got two goals, Holmes and Kilburn four assists each and Melnyk three assists.

The other two Flyer scorers were Hugh Coffin and Pat Ginnell.

Bob Kabel and Doc Couture got two goals each for Regals while Don Raleigh, Lyle Willey and Ray Ross got one each.

George, Bob Trip Rated Shuttle Duo

Once more an upset stole the spotlight in the Victoria City bantamion championships at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club as the veteran Melnyk's doubles team of George Lane and Bob Murchie battered the seeded pairing of Harvey Hurd and Jimmy Wells to a straight-games defeat, 15-11, 15-6.

The semifinal win moved Lane and Murchie into the final Saturday night against Len Tolson and Eric Hiberson.

A 15-11, 15-2 win over Bob Hunt and Ed Hedley advanced Tolson and Hiberson into the championship round in the class "A" men's doubles.

With a win in the veterans' doubles division already under their belts, Lane and Murchie are in a fair way to clean up in the men's doubles sections.

Quarter-final victories were registered by Lane and Murchie over G. Dunbar and D. Kerley, while Tolson and Hiberson defeated Reg Hoadley and Ron Simmons.

Hedley Hunt beat Rodger Lindal and Bob Peskett in a tough-fought series, 15-12, 17-14.

Bumps Salmon and Barbara Atkins won the women's veterans' doubles crown from Jo Crampton and Mrs. B. Ford, 15-12, 15-4, Tuesday night.

Action continues in singles flights at 7 and 7:30 tonight with the veterans' mixed doubles events to start at 8:30.

Friday night will be devoted to mixed doubles, A, B and C divisions, with all finals slated to get under way Saturday at 7 p.m.

Tonight's draw follows:
7 p.m.—Singles flights. O. Van Ek vs. J. Hawthorne, D. Dawson vs. J. Peters, M. Mackenzie vs. J. Harper, G. Guernsey vs. H. Rothe, A. Dayson vs. J. Hunter, 7:30 p.m.—Singles flights. J. Hunter vs. M. Mackenzie, C. Mayton vs. winner Dayson-Hunter.

8:30 p.m.—Veterans' mixed doubles. Crampton and Crampton vs. Hoadley and Davies; Temple and Warlock vs. Dunbar and Dewar; Atkins and Salmon vs. Wells and Kelly.

8:30 p.m.—Veterans' mixed doubles. Knott and Knott vs. winner of 8:30 match; Macmurchie vs. winner of 8:30 match.

Aussie Ace Cracks Four-Minute Barrier

MELBOURNE (AP)—Australian runner Herbert Elliott Wednesday night ran the mile in 3:58.7—the second time in five days he has clocked under four minutes. Elliott, 19, beat Merv Lincoln in the invitation mile race at Olympic Park here. Lincoln's time was 3:59.

The lanky, long-striding Elliott went to the front with one and one-half laps to go and comfortably held off a strong challenge by Lincoln in the straight. Ron Clarke was well back in third place with 4:09.5.

Elliott ran a mile in 3:59.9 last Saturday in an interclub event.

His time this time was only 3:58.7.

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Stan Musial, for 16 years a hero of the St. Louis Cardinals, saw at least two or three years ahead of him today after signing the National League's first $100,000 contract.

Musial said he was in better physical condition than in the past several years.

TOO MUCH TV PROMPTED DIZ TO QUIT JOB

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Dizzy Dean says he quit as a TV baseball announcer because more than one-a-week telecasts would hurt minor league baseball.

Dean was a sportscaster with CBS-TV's Saturday "game-of-the-week" last season.

"But when they started talking about making it twice a week," Dean told the Phoenix Press Box Association's annual sports award dinner, "I didn't want any part of it."

He said too frequent telecasts of major league games hurt minor league attendance.

Mick's Price Goes Up, But He Needs Practice

NEW YORK (CP)—Outfielder Mickey Mantle, who drew $65,000 last season and was named the American League's most valuable player for the second successive time, dropped a $75,000 demand at the New York Yankees' office Tuesday and departed, unsigned, for Florida.

A few hours later while talking to reporters, manager Casey Stengel studiously avoided any direct reference to his star slugger's contract status but, in a review of Yankee shortcomings, said:

"Mantle should work out in centre field. He's missing balls

Unbeaten Swede Still Forgotten

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, forgotten man in the heavyweight boxing picture, challenged world champion Floyd Patterson to meet him in a title fight. The challenge was rejected by Patterson's manager.

Johansson, undefeated European champion, risks his crown against Joe Erskine, British Empire ruler, at Göteborg, Feb. 21. Erskine appears set to meet Patterson in London in June if he defeats Johansson.

Eagle to Assist New Eskie Coach

EDMONTON (CP)—Eagle Keyes, assistant coach and scout with Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference for the last three years, has signed his seventh season with the club. Keyes was a player with the Eskis for three years.

Eskimos also announced that new head coach Sam Lyle, whose signing was announced Monday, asked that Keyes be one of his assistants.

Baltimore Seeking Indian Shortstop

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore Orioles have received permission from Cleveland Indians to lure shortstop George Strickland out of retirement.

The 32-year-old infielder announced his retirement last fall. If Oriole manager Paul Richards succeeds in changing Strickland's mind, a deal between Baltimore and Cleveland is likely.

"Cleveland needs a centre fielder, and we have five of them," said an Oriole official. He mentioned the names of Larry Doby, Jim Busby, Lennie Green, Joe Durham and Bert Hamric.

Five-Figure Bonus

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Outbidding 14 other major league clubs, the Philadelphia Phillies today announced the signing of George Michael (Hooks) Horwath, 22-year-old Bethlehem, Pa., southpaw pitcher, for a "five-figure" bonus. He was assigned to Williamsport, Pa., the National League club's Class "A" Eastern League farm club.

Power Punches Fizzle

CHICAGO (AP)—Wayne Bethea of New York outchubbed 214-pound Young Jack Johnson Wednesday night to take a unanimous 10-round decision in their heavyweight bout at the Chicago Stadium.

For a pair of heavyweights who were heralded as knockout artists, neither displayed enough punch even to come close to decking each other in the nationally televised fight.

Judge Frank McAdam scored it 49-43 for Bethea under the five-point "must" system. Judge E. Allen Frankel had it 48-44 and referee Walter Brightmore had a wide margin of 49-40.

Bethea weighed 204, 10 pounds less than his Los Angeles opponent.

Midget Flyers Gain Minor Hockey Lead

Never settling long on any one leader, the midget division of the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association lead shifted to Flyers Wednesday as they handed Canucks a 3-2 defeat at Memorial Arena.

Pacing the new leaders were Simon Whitlow, Barry Michaelson and Jim Cathro while the former division heads had Ray Beech tally for both their goals.

Yvon Fights for Boats; Once It Was for Supper

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN

NEW YORK (CP)—Yvon Durelle, the fighting Canadian fisherman, has two good reasons for winning his fight Friday night: He wants revenge, and he wants a new boat.

The 28-year-old Acadian says he is "bull hard" for his light-heavyweight boxing match at Madison Square Garden against Clarence Hinnant, 24, who beat Yvon a year ago on a technical knockout.

"I want revenge, and I want a new boat," said Durelle, 28, who has been putting together a sizeable fishing fleet in New Brunswick on his ring earnings.

Durelle's bout has been beset by difficulties. He first was matched with the formidable Tony Anthony of New York for Jan. 10 but was stricken by food poisoning. Then Anthony, whom Durelle had held to a draw earlier, came down with flu in training. Hinnant took up the challenge to battle Durelle, who is ranked third, after Harold Johnson and Yolande Pompey, for Archie Moore's title.

Durelle, British Empire light-heavy champion, said he is willing to fight like a "mad horse" for the championship, but he is sure he won't get the chance.

NOT AMERICAN

"I don't think I'll ever get a title match because I'm not an American," said Yvon. "They like to keep the titles in the United States."

Hinnant said that either he or Durelle could beat Moore, who claims he is around 40, but generally is believed older.

Hinnant, ranked eighth, predicted a "really tough" match Friday night.

"I'll box him," he said. "He has a tough punch in both hands. If I see a chance to stop it early, I'll take it, of course."

His manager, Billy Edwards, said he hungers to make a match in Canada between his boy and Durelle, in Montreal or Moncton, N.B.

Durelle said flatly he doesn't intend to let this fight go more than five rounds. Asked what his strategy will be, he said:

"I don't know anything about boxing. I just fight. He will try to run away. But there are no trees to climb in a ring."

ONLY ONE LOSS

Durelle's loss to Hinnant was his only one in 19 fights.

"I'd fight this one for nothing," he said. "I'm not going to let him go."

But the smile on the French Canadian's face took away some of the salt of his remarks, and the impression was left that he loves boxing.

There was a twinkle in his eye as he recalled that he has been talking about retiring since he started fighting in Chatham, N.B., not far from his home village of Baie Ste. Anne, when he was 15.

Last year he earned $30,000 in the ring, Durelle estimated.

It all started when small-boy quarrels broke out among the six Durelle brothers.

"My father, who was a blacksmith and carpenter, would tell us to get out on the floor and fight," said Yvon.

"The loser wouldn't get supper. . . . I got tired of going without supper."

2-Minute Silence In Gandhi's Memory

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India paid homage today to the memory of Mohandas Gandhi, assassinated by a Hindu extremist 10 years ago today.

Two minutes' silence was observed throughout the country, and Prime Minister Nehru attended a ceremony at the New Delhi house where Gandhi was shot as he was about to hold a prayer meeting.

FOR THE PRESS—Post office employee Marguerite Clement of Ottawa poses with the new five-cent stamp saluting the press of Canada that went on sale this week. The columns of two newspapers—marked bilingually—"A Free Press"—blend into a background scene symbolizing rural and urban Canada: a grain elevator, telephone and power poles, a bridge, a ship, a factory smokestack, a church, tall buildings and a broadcasting tower. HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and the second questioner a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Gail Harvey, aged 11, of Fort Collins, Colo., for her question:

Does the Platypus Live on Land or in Water?

The furry platypus lives his life in and out of the water. He is an excellent swimmer, but he cannot breathe under water. His home is a deep tunnel in a muddy river bank. It ends in a cosy dry room where he has made a bed of grass and mud leaves. There is a front door and a back door to the underground home. The front door, the one he uses most often, opens under the water. The back door opens into thick brush some distance from the river. This back door provides ventilation and an extra escape route in case of trouble. The tunnels may be 30 to 50 feet long.

Most of the platypus' day is spent dozing in his cosy underground bedroom. He sleeps curled up in a furry ball. His duckbill nose, his webbed feet and his beaver type tail are neatly tucked inside the round ball of fur. Most of his hunting is done after dusk. He is a meat eater and his food must be eaten alive.

The famous duck-like bill is very handy for dabbling in the mud where the platypus finds worms, snails and crustaceans. The bill is made of tough, leathery stuff and is filled with sensitive nerves. Two small shields of the tough bill extend over his face. They prevent him from digging too deep and getting mud in his eyes.

Water insects are also on the platypus' diet. His bill is splendid for snapping and grabbing. It also serves to crush shells. However, the little fellow has only horny plates with which to chew. Strange to say, he had teeth as a baby. But they fall out long before he becomes an adult.

Once in a while, the platypus may take a short stroll on the dry land, but he never strays far from his river. Most of his walks are busy hunting trips along the river's muddy banks.

In the water, he is as skilful and as graceful as a beaver. This is where he uses his webbed feet and his wide, flat tail. The front paws do most of the rowing and swimming work. The tail is used for steering. Unlike the beaver's flat, wide tail, the tail of the platypus is covered with long, coarse hairs.

When it comes to fur coats, that this old grime-chaser might some day take off for the moon!

ALLEY OOPS FUNNY? NOT TO HURT BOWLER

CHICAGO (AP)—A man who was struck by a bowling ball sued an alley for $25,000 damages Wednesday.

Thomas Kincaid, 43, claims he suffered permanent brain injury March 11, 1957, at the Lagers Recreation Parlor when a patron, William Lapp, took a ball from a rack and began swinging it. The ball slipped, sailed 30 feet through the air and hit Kincaid.

LABOR GROUP PRAISED

$10,000 Given To Aged Housing

Victoria Labor Council was praised Wednesday night when it turned $10,000 over to the Senior Citizens Housing Society as its centennial project.

"I'm very proud it was a labor organization that came through with this tremendous help to the old people of this city," said Mrs. May Campbell, society president.

The VLC donation will launch a proposed $100,000 low-rent housing development on Styles Street for old-age pensioners by qualifying the society for a promised $33,000 provincial grant and a long-term loan from Central Housing and Mortgage Corporation.

TENDERS CALLED

Mrs. Campbell said tenders for construction of the development probably will be called next week.

The development will comprise 26 single units for old-age pensioners. Rental will be $25 a month.

"You couldn't have done anything better," she told the VLC meeting. "Already there are more than 26 applications in our hands."

Mrs. Campbell said the development seemed "only a dream" when the society learned it would have to raise from $10,000 in cash. She promised "if I have my way" that the VLC contribution making it reality would be noted in the cornerstone or on a plaque.

ACHIEVEMENT

VLC President Robert Barrie, who presented the cheque, said "everyone in the labor movement of Victoria can be proud of this achievement—the first centennial project completed in 1958 anywhere in B.C. as far as I know."

Marian E. Storey, convener of the society's ways and means committee, said "every dollar will be put into the project, not administrative expenses."

She added that the society may be helped further by other organizations through a porch-light campaign and tag days.

The VLC has applied for a $2,000 grant from the Greater Victoria centennial committee to add to its contribution.

The plot, of course, is about miscegenation, the intermarriage of persons of different races. And if there is a weakness to the whole it is this, derived from a feeling of sameness as exploited by a series of pictures on the same subject.

Newspapers Attract Ads From TV

NEW YORK (CP)—The Wall Street Journal says some advertisers are switching from television to newspapers in an effort to get better returns.

"Hit by stiffer competition and in many cases a downturn in sales, companies are trying to write more results from their advertising dollars."

Centennial Park Project Starts Soon

COURTENAY — Major items in the development of Comox Valley Centennial Park have been decided and work will start shortly, it was announced this week by A. N. Dick, Exhibition Association president.

Preparation for erection of steel fencing is under way, site of an Indian lodge and museum has been selected, and choice of design for the Tye Bowl grandstand is nearing completion.

Final payment of $5,280.80 of the 60-cent per capita project grant has been approved by the B.C. Centennial committee, which made the first payment of $4,000 some months ago.

Committees have been appointed by the association as follows: Les Brody, and S. B. Peterson, grounds and sheds; John Larsen, buildings; E. H. Spencer, membership; H. M. Cornwall, G. Smith, J. Farquhar, William Gooderham, and Mrs. J. S. Dadds, fall fair; W. G. Lamb, publicity.

Ex-officio directors are Mrs. Dadds, from the Fall Fair auxiliary; Chief Andrew Frank, Puntledge Indian Band; and FO Cable, RCAF liaison.

Work in Woods Resuming Soon

COURTENAY—Unemployment situation is expected to ease markedly within two weeks as a result of logging camps resuming operations, according to W. J. Allan, National Employment Service manager here.

Salmon River Logging Ltd. and Elk River, Timber Co. Ltd. will start crews Monday, and Comox Logging expects to start operations within two weeks.

B.C. Forest Service will employ 45 men on a tree planting project at Elk River during February, and the Alaska Pine shingle mill at Fanny Bay has returned to work on a partial basis with 50 men employed.

Old Hospital To Stay Open

NANAIMO—Existing 120-bed Nanaimo General Hospital will be devoted to care of chronic cases once the $4,500,000 regional hospital proposed for the district is constructed, hospital directors have assured the Old Age Pensioners' Organization.

Gordon Frith, administrator, said the decision to keep the hospital in service is recognition of the many years during which gifts of money kept the hospital operating.

The one hospital board expects to operate both institutions when the new hospital is ready for use, Mr. Frith said. Chronic patients who might otherwise be sent to Victoria or Vancouver will be given priority, he said.

New Plebiscite On Waterfront Project Planned

CAMPBELL RIVER — The provincial government has accepted a plan to hold a new plebiscite on the contentious waterfront development scheme here. Dan Campbell, Comox MLA, has informed the village commission here.

Mr. Campbell, who had prompted a government hearing on the plan and the holding of the plebiscite, informed the commission by letter that the date for the vote will be announced shortly.

Meanwhile, a request for improvement of the passenger and freight service between Quadra Island and here was made to Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi and Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston in Victoria Wednesday by a delegation of Quadra Island Ratepayers' Association.

Led by Don Huntley, the delegation asked for a private ferry landing slip for the ferry at the government wharf here, and reduction of passenger rates to 10 cents from 25 cents.

The present subsidized ferry service comes up for tender each March.

Provision of ferry landing facilities here is one of the main features of the proposal put forward by the backers of the waterfront development scheme.

AT GABRIOLA ISLAND

Shipyard Overpaid On Naval Contract

OTTAWA (CP) — Howard Green, acting defence production minister, Wednesday informed the Commons that Withey's Shipyard Limited of Gabriola Island, B.C., was paid $99,102 of a $119,200 contract price for a small naval vessel though only 50 per cent of the work was ever completed by the firm.

The contract was cancelled by the former Liberal government in 1936 and the ship—a clear-ance diving vessel—was transferred to the naval dockyard at Esquimalt, B.C., for completion.

REPLYING TO QUERIES

Mr. Green was replying to questions put by G. H. Castleden (CCF-Yorkton) arising out of the report of Auditor-General Watson Sellar for the fiscal year ended last March 31.

Mr. Sellar said it is a generally accepted practice that progress payments on firm-price contracts be made as various stages of construction are reached. This arrangement was included in the $119,200 contract of 1933 for the naval vessel.

CERTIFICATES GIVEN

Mr. Sellar added that certificates as to progress were given by departmental officers from time to time and payments made. But it turned out that these certificates were "unsubstantiated" because the contractor was paid more than 80 per cent of the contract price while performing only 50 per cent of the work.

Mr. Sellar did not identify the firm involved but Mr. Green did so yesterday at the request of Mr. Castleden.

Mr. Green added that the progress certificates were signed by the responsible naval overseeing officers of the defence department.

Alberta Help Sought For Unemployed Miners

... pleads for miners

The Social Credit governments of B.C. and Alberta were asked to co-operate, Wednesday, in an effort to re-establish 250 miners thrown out of work by the closing of the Elk River Colliery at Fernie last Monday.

In a fighting speech on behalf of the unemployed miners, Tom Uphill, veteran labor member for Fernie, urged that 147 Alberta miners now working at Michel, B.C., should be found other employment so that Fernie miners could work at Michel.

Mr. Uphill said Alberta had benefited because the B.C. mine absorbed 147 miners still living and paying taxes over the border in Alberta.

"The Alberta government is receiving thousands of dollars from these miners and in the circumstances it would be a Christian and statesmanlike act if the Alberta and B.C. governments co-operated in helping the workless miners of Fernie."

Mr. Uphill said he hoped to meet Premier Bennett and his cabinet with a view to placing a proposition before the Alberta government "as soon as possible."

He was critical of a suggestion that Fernie miners should be given work on the roads.

UNSKILLED

"These men have given their lives to the mines," he said. "They have their homes there—they have a place in the life of the community. Why should they be turned into the streets to do work that unskilled men can do?"

"They deserve better treatment than that. What member of this House would like to be turned out his job at 45 or 50 and told to take a pick and shovel on the roads?"

Mr. Uphill glared around the House as if expecting someone to say "I would." But no one answered.

INQUEST VERDICT

Hanging Death 'Accidental'

Schoolboy Danny J. Fraser hanged himself accidentally last Sunday afternoon, a coroner's jury found Wednesday.

The 14-year-old died almost instantly of a fractured neck, according to medical evidence.

He had been reported missing from his home at 469 Thetis, Belmont Park, and 90 minutes later was found by searchers hanging by his neck from an arbutus tree in a wooded area near home.

Deputy coroner Dr. J. H. Moore instructed the jury to find death by accident or suicide.

There was no question of suicide.

"He was just an average, normal boy," Danny's father, CPO Gordon Fraser, told the inquest.

Playmate Patrick Aylward, 10, 490 Thetis, told the jury he had been with Danny Sunday afternoon.

PLAYING GUNS

"We were playing guns, Danny, Harold and I were walking down to the lagoon and Danny said he was going to have a smoke. We went off for a hike and he went down by himself."

Cadets Bruce Buyster and Albert William Pchajek of Canadian Services College at Royal Roads were the two searchers who found the body.

With other cadets, police and firemen they were searching the shoreline and bush with flashlights and at about 8:30 p.m. found the body hanging by a rope, which was tied to a branch of the tree, then looped over other branches.

CALL FOR HELP

The cadets called for help and took down the body. Cadet Buyster said there was a slipknot noose in the end of the rope around Danny's neck. Under the rope were a tartan shirt, fastened around the neck, and between the rope and the neck, a straw object.

This was a bottomless straw hangbag which boys of the neighborhood used when playing cowboys and Indians in the bush below Belmont Park.

The articles and rope apparently were arranged by Danny himself. He had not been seen by his playmates since between 2:30 and 3 p.m.

Other officers are Mrs. Ivy Anders, vice-president; Miss Patricia Howard, secretary; Donald Twine, treasurer; Stuart Holman, librarian; Hewlett Gwynne, assistant librarian; Mrs. Margaret Dunn and Mrs. Hazel Sherratt, social conveners; Mrs. Elizabeth Holt, hobes mistress; R. Taunt, robes master; Mrs. Marion Thompson, sick visitor, and Leslie Millen, registrar.

Saanich Tax Penalty Period Shortened

Saanich tax notices this year will be changed to shorten the period of progressive penalties before the full 10 per cent penalty is imposed on delinquent taxpayers.

The new Municipal Act advanced the starting date for the 10 per cent penalty from Dec. 31 to Nov. 30.

The new progressive penalties, to be imposed after the final due date Oct. 10, are two per cent on Oct. 11, four per cent on Nov. 1, seven per cent on Nov. 15 and the full 10 per cent on Nov. 29.

Socialists Demand Youth Training Plan

A demand that the federal government institute a free trades training program with full unemployment insurance benefits for all young people laid off work has been made by the B.C. Committee of the Socialist Youth League.

Proposal was contained in a brief circulated Wednesday among members of the provincial legislature.

The brief said that during periods of unemployment youth are often the first to be laid off because they lack seniority.

To create more work it proposed more public works projects such as low-cost housing and trade schools, and expanded trade with the world, particularly China.

The League also called for a royal commission inquiry into the juvenile delinquency problem in B.C.

British Underground Missile Tops U.S.

NEW YORK (CP)—The New York Times says in a London dispatch that Britain is developing an intermediate-range ballistic missile whose range will exceed that of American IRBMs.

The missile, "now being perfected in Britain," says the Times story, would be fired from underground sites, adding that "British military scientists regard this as a step beyond the United States missiles designed to be fired from ground level and hence as vulnerable to attack as bombers on an airfield."

UBC 'Tin Cup' Deplored By CCF Member

A CCF member of the legislature said Wednesday it is wrong that the University of B.C. has to go around the province "with a tin-cup" seeking funds for development.

The university is a foundation of our society, said Cranbrook MLA Leo Nimsick, and should not have to depend on charity.

"I think it is the duty of society, and the funds should come out of consolidated revenue to see that the university is looked after," Mr. Nimsick said.

Youth Surrenders Meekly at End of Murder Trail

DOUGLAS, Yyo. (AP) — A nineteen-year-old "mad gunman" captured in a wild chase that ended when he meekly stopped his stolen car, faced justice today in the wanton slaying of 10 persons.

Nineteen-year-old Charles Starkweather gave up Wednesday near this cattle town after police said, he had shot a sleeping shoe salesman and fled. It was the final killing in a savage raid which saw nine people slain in Nebraska since Monday.

With him was Carl Fugate, a whose parents and infant half-sister police say Starkweather killed in the start of a murderous killing spree.

The bandy-legged little gunman complained mostly of a small nick in his ear suffered when a sheriff's bullet shattered glass in his stolen sedan. He seemed unconcerned about the girl, who was put under sedation after she had fled his car in hysterics shortly before he was captured.

County attorney William P. Dixon said he would file a murder charge today against Starkweather in the death of Merle Collison, 37-year-old shoe salesman from Great Falls, Mont. Collison was shot as he slept in his car near Douglas. An autopsy disclosed nine bullet wounds from a .22-calibre rifle.

Starkweather had an empty .22-calibre rifle when he was surprised by another motorist standing by Collison's car.

Meanwhile, at Lincoln, Neb., county attorney Elmer Scheele said he and two officers would fly to Douglas today, and that "we are going to do our utmost to get him back here." Wyoming will have priority on prosecution if Dixon decides to press in the Collison killing.

If Starkweather faces Wyoming justice and is convicted of first-degree murder, the penalty is the gas chamber. But Wyoming's Governor Millard Simpson is strongly opposed to capital punishment, and recently stated that he would continue his policy of commutation.

In Nebraska, the death penalty is exacted in the electric chair if a defendant is found guilty of first-degree murder and the jury sets the penalty at death.

There was no immediate statement on any possible charges against the Fugate girl. Starkweather told officers he had forced her to go along with him on the wild ride that ended in Wyoming cattle country.

She herself fled screaming from the car after Collison was shot, and said that Starkweather was crazy and that she feared for her own life.

Joe Sprinkle, 29-year-old oil company employee, tussled briefly with Starkweather along the road and wrenched the rifle from his hands. Starkweather had threatened him when he stopped to offer aid.

It was then that sheriff's men drove up and Starkweather bolted in a black sedan stolen at Lincoln. Sheriff Earl Heflin gave chase, firing as the two cars roared down the highway and through Douglas. Outside of Douglas Starkweather stopped and gave up.

Sprinkle said Starkweather tried to get him to demonstrate how the hand brake was released on Collison's car. The oil man then noticed Collison's body jammed under the dashboard. When Starkweather threatened him with the rifle, Sprinkle grabbed it.

In addition to the 10 deaths, police want to question Starkweather about the death of 21-year-old Robert Colvert of Lincoln, found shot in the head last Dec. 1.

Striking by threes starting Monday, the killer first wiped out Carl's family of three.

Then, in another foray discovered a full day later, he killed a one-time hunting companion and a pair of high school sweethearts.

Still later, probably another full day, he shot down a prominent Lincoln businessman, and stabbed his wife and their 51-year-old housekeeper in their home.

It was the 10th killing—of the salesman—that broke the chain.

That was the end of the man's procession.

Back in Lincoln Starkweather's father, Guy Starkweather, 47, a carpenter, admitted he had feared for his own and his wife's safety.

"I don't think Charles would hesitate to shoot me," Charlie always had a burst of temper, but never anything like this."

More Funds Asked For Agriculture

The provincial government should double the amount it spends on agricultural development in B. C., Stanley Carnell (SC-South Peace River) told the legislature Wednesday.

He stated that only $1,800,000 out of a $274,000,000 budget in 1957 had been allotted to agriculture—less than 1 per cent of the total.

"This is a trifling sum when viewed in the light of our tremendous growth possibilities in the north," Mr. Carnell said. "If it were doubled it would not be out of line with the importance of the industry to this province."

Mr. Carnell predicted that extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway into the Peace River country would mark the beginning of a new era in the beef industry.

"This railway is the key to the future of our province," he said amid applause. "In days to come we will look back on the Peace River extension as the turning point in our history."

EGYPT-SYRIA

SOON 'U.A.S.'

LONDON (CP)—The official name of the new state to be formed by the union of Syria and Egypt will be the United Arab State, Egyptian sources have indicated.

Syria already has approved the setting up of a new Egyptian-Syrian union and an official proclamation is expected within the next few days.

The name has been used in Egyptian newspaper reports of the union, and was used in Damascus by Syrian Foreign Minister Salah Bitar in a press conference Tuesday night.

Employment Records Stay in Vancouver

Victoria Labor Council Wednesday was told that retention of unemployment insurance records here instead of in Vancouver would not speed up processing of claims.

A letter from the UIC, replying to a VLC request for retention of Victorians' records here, said dispersion of the books would create difficulties in processing claims.

NANAIMO INDIAN CHIEF ON ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Appointment of Chief Edison White of the Nanaimo Indian Band to the provincial Indian Advisory Committee was announced Wednesday by Labor Minister Wicks.

"It is the first time that a member has been chosen from Vancouver Island," Mr. Wicks said, "and it is expected that Chief White's understanding of the special needs of the Vancouver Island Indians will be a great asset to the committee."

Chief White's appointment brings to seven the number of members on the committee.

ILLUMINATED CERTIFICATES went to a father-daughter team Wednesday that donated 40 pints of blood to Red Cross. Major R. A. C. Hogarth, blood panel chairman (right), presented certificates to S. H. Brooker and his daughter, May Brooker, both of 3556 Richmond. Also honored were 41 others.

Blood Donations Increase But Still More Required

A total of 6,470 pints of blood was donated at 26 blood clinics conducted last year by the Victoria branch, Canadian Red Cross Society, Maj. R. A. C. Hogarth, chairman of the local blood donor panel, reported at the annual meeting Wednesday.

"There was an increase in donations over the previous year, but it was still not as much as we had hoped for," he said.

"But we're always aiming for the moon in the hope that we'll get over the garden fence."

Next blood clinic will be held at Red Cross House Feb. 5.

Forty-three persons were honored for blood donations. Top award went to Kirk S. Loucks, for 70 donations, and pins also were presented Mrs. Grace Pearman, Mrs. Nellie Griffiths, C. W. Wilmott, and Mrs. Isobel Dixon, for 30 pints each.

CERTIFICATES

Certificates were presented to 38 persons who gave 20 pints each:

Amy Myers, Volmer W. Petersen, Roger Nedelec, Cyril Dibnah, Robert Robertson, George P. Wells, Norman Wright, Harry W. Sangren, Mrs. Sylvia

Projectionists Oppose Change In Regulations

Victoria Labor Council Wednesday backed the B.C. Projectionists' union in opposing feared amendments that would relax qualifications for projectionists.

It agreed to a request from Local 348 to send letters to members of the legislature expressing opposition to relaxed examinations for projectionists.

The Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association of B.C. would seek the amendments at the current legislative session, the union said.

The move was designed "to break down our conditions and if successful will seriously threaten our bargaining power by allowing immigrants or unqualified persons to replace us in our jobs in case of disputes."

Labor Council Re-Elects Chief

Robert Barrie was re-elected president of the Victoria Labor Council Wednesday night to head the 1958 slate of officers.

Mr. Barrie, a chemical workers delegate, served five years as president of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council before its merger with the Canadian Congress of Labor Council to form the VLC in 1956.

Other officers elected were: First vice-president, E. T. Staley, carpenters; second vice-president, Ed Haw, woodworkers; secretary-treasurer, A. W. Toone; sergeant-at-arms, James Pennock, teamsters.

BE PROUD

T. C. Gooderham, Canadian Labor Congress regional director of education and organization, installed the new executive and presented the council with its permanent charter from the CLC.

"You should be very proud of the work done by the previous councils before the merger and by the work of the present council," he said.

"The council has grown to be a responsible, considerate and mature organization," he said, calling for more public relations activity.

"Too often the public reads of racketeering in the U.S. But it doesn't hear often enough the good work of this council in such things as the $10,000 it donated to the Senior Citizens Housing Society tonight," he said.

Also elected to the executive council were chairmen of committees: Percy Rayment, legislation; James Moffat, pub-

$45,135 PAID BY MOTORISTS

Law-breaking motorists were fined a total of $45,135 in Victoria during December. The figure doesn't include the 3,793 occasions when parking regulations were broken. Careless parkers paid an additional $5,089 to the police department.

Speeders were in the majority among the persons fined for driving—75 paid $1,430 for driving over 30.

MASS MEETING CALLED OFF

Unemployed Parley Asked

Plans for a mass meeting of unemployed here have been frozen for the present.

Victoria Labor Council Wednesday voted to leave the matter to the discretion of a special committee.

The action was taken after committee chairman Donald Douglas reported that original intentions to stage the meeting in conjunction with a B.C. Federation of Labor presentation to the Cabinet were cancelled.

The federation dropped plans to present a brief at this session and called for an emergency provincial-municipal conference on unemployment instead.

City May Sell Property Now Reserved for Schools

A proposal to free for sale by the city upwards of $100,000 in residential, commercial and industrial lots, was to go to Victoria city council later today.

The property is now held in reserve for school purposes. Council finance committee has compiled a list of 42 lots now frozen for school use. The committee recommends Greater Victoria School Board be given 30 days to give reason for their retention.

The committee also says, if the board doesn't act in that time, the city should take "requisite action for their removal from such (school) reservation."

ADD TO INCOME
The action provides two opportunities for the city to add to its 1958 income.

By sale of the lots to private bidders, the fund required for construction of a new fire hall and a new garbage wharf could be considerably bolstered.

If the school board feels it requires any of the properties, council could profit by selling the lands to the board. In the past, such lots have often been transferred without cost.

GROSS VALUE
However, under the present school financing system, the provincial government pays 50 per cent of the cost of property.

Esquimalt, Oak Bay and Saanich pay about 25 per cent, and Victoria pays 25 per cent.

If the land is sold to the board, the city will realize about 75 per cent of the gross value.

The policy has been studied by various councils for several years but was never acted upon due to delays in obtaining a list of the properties from the school board.

The lots, with frontages of 40 to 60 feet and depths of 110 to 117 feet, are located in groups in both central and fringe areas of the city.

Shipyards Brief On Unemployment Going to Ottawa

The president of the B.C. Shipyard General Workers' Federation will present a brief to the federal cabinet calling for measures to meet unemployment in the industry.

William Stewart of Vancouver, has been directed to take the brief to Ottawa as "soon as possible" by the federation executive here.

The brief petitions the government to establish subsidies designed to bolster the merchant navy and to increase efforts of expanding foreign trade.

More federal orders for shipyard construction are requested. Protests against construction in foreign countries of tankers and freighters to be used in B.C. coastal waters are included.

Sam Jenkins, president of Local 1, Marine Workers' and Boilermakers' Independent Union, is expected to accompany Mr. Stewart.

CCF PLANS DETAILED PROBE INTO HIGHWAYS EXPENSES

The CCF plans to make a searching inquiry at the current legislative session into the operations of the provincial highways department.

CCF members on the House public accounts committee have asked that all vouchers from the department be produced for examination.

It is known the opposition is particularly interested in learning the details of travelling expenses by Highways Minister Gagliardi.

They want to find out more about the two airplanes operated by the department. Public accounts for the 1956-57 fiscal year tabled in the House last week give little detail.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The clubroom of the Prairie Club has been moved from the old location on Courtney Street to the Exchange Building, 1216 Broad Street.

The room will be open from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce industrial group has cancelled its dinner meeting scheduled to be held at the Olde England Inn next Tuesday. Reason is that two films which were to have been shown are unavailable that day.

James Moffatt, Victoria Labor Council public relations chairman, was named VLC representative Wednesday to a committee being formed in Victoria to foster understanding between immigrants and Canadians and assist newcomers in adjusting to conditions here.

A $1,600 cheque was presented to the Cerebral Palsy Association Tuesday by the Victoria Chapter of the Order of De Moley.

The money came from door to door sale of peanuts last September.

Victoria Labor Council spoke for 2,362 more unionists in 1957 than in the previous year. VLC was told Wednesday that its affiliated membership grew to 69 unions representing a total of 13,170 workers.

The annual general meeting of the YMCA active membership will be held in the association headquarters tonight at 7:45.

Prior to the election of officers reports of committees for the past year will be presented.

Annual meeting of the Victoria Building Co-operative Union will be held Friday at 8 p.m. in the Labor Hall, 615 Pandora.

A Japanese freighter which dropped anchor off Ross Bay about 10 p.m. Wednesday to make minor engine repairs caused a flurry of excitement along the waterfront.

A 17-year-old boy was warned to go straight and then was sentenced in city court today to one year definite and 6 months indeterminate at young offender's unit for breaking and entering.

The election was held at the 51st annual meeting of the association in Toronto.

Competing in a group of 13 other associations, Victoria reached 96.7 per cent of its membership objective last year.

Some 120 electrical workers here and 650 in Vancouver began casting ballots today in a government-supervised strike vote. International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 230 here, will complete voting Friday in the current dispute with B.C. Electric Co. and Hume & Rumble Ltd.

PUBLISHER'S NOTEBOOK

Due Processes of Law

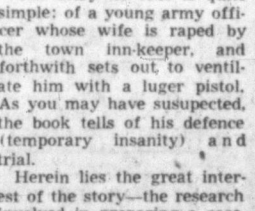

Like most rules, the one which contends that you should read only for profit must be broken at least twice a year.

Just as the person on a diet is permitted to lash out occasionally in an orgy of sauces and sundae, the ardent reader should pick up a book now and then and enjoy it for the sheer fun of reading.

Such a book is "Anatomy of a Murder," which happens to be the current Book-of-the-Month choice. The critics say it is awkward, badly-stitched and discursive. They argue a bit loftily—that it won't improve your mind and that you will learn nothing from its style.

So be it. I picked it up on a weekend trip to Vancouver and found I couldn't put it down.

"Anatomy" is the work of a Michigan judge, writing under the nom-de-pen of "Robert Traver." The pseudonym is a bit puzzling, since the dust jacket carries a full-length portrait of the author. This is scarcely concealment, but never mind.

The story he tells is quite simple: of a young army officer whose wife is raped by the town inn-keeper, and forthwith sets out to ventilate him with a luger pistol. As you may have suspected, the book tells of his defence (temporary insanity) and trial.

Herein lies the great interest of the story—the research involved in preparing a case, the sparring of rival counsel, the reactions of a truly wise judge.

To the layman, and particularly the Canadian layman, it is engrossing to sit in as an American lawyer gives his client what is known as The Lecture—the business in which, though he is forbidden to coach the defendant, he must subtly suggest the best defence permitted by the law. Polly Biegler's client, Lieutenant Manion, catches on quickly. Not only sane, but shrewd, he makes a persuasive case and it's a hard-headed reader who won't be praying for his acquittal, despite a somewhat obnoxious personality.

Critics or no, "Anatomy of a Murder" makes carking good reading, these dark January nights.

Queen Mother Remembers, 19 Years Later

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Times Women's Editor Only change in Her Majesty the Queen Mother, as far as Miss Janet Tait is concerned, is in the way she does her hair.

A member of the regular Government House staff during the royal visit in 1939, Miss Tait remembers.

"Her Majesty wore her hair in a fringe over her forehead then. Now it is parted in the middle and waved back softly on either side. It looks much better."

Brought out of retirement especially for the visit Wednesday of the Queen Mother at the Vancouver residence of Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross, Miss Tait was one of the maids on duty in the Queen's suite. She also assisted in serving.

In 1939 Miss Tait was in charge of the late King George VI's suite in Government House during the Victoria visit.

Did Her Majesty remember her, she was asked in a brief interview Wednesday evening after the royal plane had left for Honolulu.

"When she shook hands with all of us before she left for the plane, I told her," Miss Tait said, "and she said to me, 'I remember.'"

"She held my hand a bit longer too, and then she said — and did she look sad — 'much has happened since then, hasn't it?'"

The Queen Mother, has changed very little in those in-between years, Miss Tait says.

"She is just as beautiful and just as friendly. And, no one can beat that smile."

Miss Tait returned to her home in the city this morning.

Over from Victoria with her were Taylor Jenkinson, head chauffeur, who drove the Queen Mother during her stay in Vancouver; the two Chinese cooks, Chung and Wing; Miss Bertha McDougall, laundry maid and two other chauffeurs, Bud Jenkinson and Will Loughheed.

Miss Mary Fraser, long-time housekeeper at Government House, missed the royal visit. She was called to Edmonton a week ago due to the serious illness of a brother.

Teachers Threatening To 'Blacklist' Victoria

FIRE LOSS HIGHEST LAST YEAR

Changes Asked By New Chief

Victoria's 1957 fire loss of $1,282,851 was probably the largest in history.

The annual report of fire chief James Bayliss, submitted to Victoria council today, shows the second highest loss in the last 10 years occurred in 1954 and totalled $500,247.

Average loss over the 10-year period is $312,107.

Chief Bayliss said he had not checked far enough back to be certain the 1957 loss was the greatest ever, but "it is probable it is."

Actually, half of Victoria was consumed in a vast fire, July 23, 1907. But smaller building values at that time showed only a $75,000 loss.

SIX MAJOR ALARMS

Six major fires out of 842 alarms last year, did more than $1,200,000 damage. These were Government House ($757,252), Ramsay and Adams Foundry ($348,000), the Bird Cage (old legislative building) ($196,000), Manning Timber Co. mill ($126,686), Gibsons Bowldrome ($70,014), and Maynard's auction building ($49,930).

Highlights of the chief's first report the assumed office in January on retirement of former chief Frank Briers, were recommendations mentioned earlier: that Burnside Fire Hall be sold and a new branch hall be built in vicinity of Point Ellice Bridge, that the city budget $10,500 between now and 1960 for replacement of all radio equipment, and that a lieutenant-inspector be added to the 91-man force at a cost of $2,185 for the balance of this year.

The report showed there was no loss of life in Victoria by fire in 1957, there were 83 false alarms and 23 inhalator calls answered.

Would Bar Employment Of Needed New Staff

Greater Victoria School District is expected to be labeled a "no-agreement area" by B.C. Teachers' Federation following a break-down in teacher salary talks.

The action likely will mean a serious teacher shortage here this fall.

Fuse on the bomb is a school board report that Greater Victoria School Board will issue cheques to 687 teachers Friday, which will include a 6 per cent salary increase favored by the board but unacceptable to the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association.

A general meeting of the GVTA Wednesday unanimously rejected arbitration as a means of settling the current deadlock. The school board has refused to negotiate further.

A news release by the GVTA, following the meeting stated, "The present salary deadlock results from the board's ultimatum, and from its refusal to continue negotiations broken off by the board in mid-December."

Chairman of the GVTA salary committee, Walter Kitley, added, "The teachers feel the possibility of negotiation have not yet been sufficiently explored and consequently the decision against seeking arbitration has been taken."

MAY NOT STRIKE

It was later learned unofficially that unless the board agrees to further talks, the teachers will take the stand that no agreement exists in this area. Under provincial legislation, they may not strike.

In this event the board likely will have grave difficulty in acquiring the 100 to 150 teachers who normally would be enrolled this September. (The board has announced expanded school enrolments mean 30 additional teachers will be required in September. Besides these, there is a normal 20 per cent turnover in teaching staff.)

Any teacher filling one of these vacancies would be doing so in violation of B.C. Teacher Federation policy.

Mr. Kitley emphasized that, "It is a policy of the B.C. Teacher Federation that no teacher in B.C. will accept a position in any district where there is no salary agreement."

FRIDAY CHEQUE

School board finance chairman, Kenneth Leeming confirmed today that the January cheques for teachers, which are to be distributed Friday, will include the wage increase favoured by the board.

The boost represents an increase of 6 per cent or $192,000 over the 1957 wage bill, almost certainly a one mill increase on district taxes.

Mr. Leeming said the boost would be as great as 10 per cent for some low-scaled teaching positions and almost 4 per cent in the higher-scaled positions.

He could not comment on the possibility teachers would avoid working in this area next fall.

"We have not been officially advised of the outcome of the teachers' meeting."

"I can only repeat we set the scale after negotiations which left us far apart. The teachers stated they had nothing further to offer. The board set a scale it thought would be fair to the teachers and the taxpayers. It is close to the basic BCTF scale."

"The teachers were all provided with the scale and the salary committee was asked to advise if it was acceptable, within 21 days, or it was their privilege to ask arbitration."

"It is now 42 days since the letters went out and the board has not had a specific answer."

Mr. Kitley thought the new scale probably would make Victoria teachers' salaries lowest in the province.

Similar contract disagreements are appearing between teachers and school boards throughout B.C.

West Vancouver teachers are currently advertising in Victoria papers that teachers not apply for work in that area, until a satisfactory agreement is reached.

In a news release Tuesday, the BCTF charged the B.C. School Trustees' Association with violating the intent of provincial legislation "... and seeking to deny teachers their long-standing bargaining rights by unilaterally and arbitrarily fixing teachers' salaries."

A section of the Public Schools Act states trustees shall have power to "adopt a salary schedule applicable to all classes of teachers employed in the public schools in a district."

There was no reference in the act to negotiation of salaries.

Hence some boards of trustees have "fixed" salaries and offered the alternative of arbitration if they were unacceptable.

This has been the attitude adopted by boards in 17 areas, including Victoria, Saanich and Sooke, the BCTF statement said.

"But teachers had found from experience that arbitration produced unacceptable salaries, that the trustees tended to ignore the process of negotiations and go to arbitration at once, and arbitration boards have never effectively tried to determine what teachers' salaries should be."

ABANDONED

The boat, property of R. M. Barnes, of the immigration department where all accused lived, was abandoned near Port Angeles.

Magistrate H. C. Hall said "Theft in Hungary is no different from theft here. Common sense should tell you you don't go around taking things from people."

He sentenced Zvonas first, "Your probation report shows you have little inclination to work and you are a grumbler."

NOT FAVORABLE

The magistrate noted the records for Bada and Toth were not favorable and he gave them the same sentence.

Of Labadi and Gezzi he noted "Your work record is quite good. It would seem you are trying to make good."

Each of the men was a ward of the immigration department.

Jail Sentence For Hungarians Who Stole Boat

30 Days for Three, 15 Days for Two

Five Hungarians found guilty of stealing a small boat in which they sailed across Juan de Fuca Strait in a storm Jan. 19 were given jail terms in city police court today.

Elomar Zvonas, Bela Bada and Joseph Toth each were sentenced to 30 days, while Laszlo Gezzi and Joseph Labadi were sentenced to 15 days.

Through an interpreter a spokesman for the accused said "Our intention was to bring the boat back, but the storm came between."

Funeral Here for Daughter Of Saskatchewan Premier

Miss Dorothy L. Scott, only daughter of Walter Scott, the first premier of Saskatchewan, and a former resident of Victoria, died in a Winnipeg hospital Wednesday.

The body is to be brought to Victoria and will be buried beside those of her father and mother in the family plot at Royal Oak Burial Park.

Mr. Scott was premier of Saskatchewan from 1905 to 1916. After his retirement he and his wife and daughter lived in Victoria for 15 years.

In 1935, following the death of Mrs. Scott, father and daughter moved to Guelph, Ont., and the ex-premier died here on March 23, 1938, aged 70. His daughter was at his bedside to the end.

DEVOTED

Dr. E. L. McNiven of 2747 Saultwell was friendly with the family when they lived in Victoria.

"Miss Scott was always devoted to her father," he said. "She would have been about 55 years old at her death."

Mr. Scott was a newspaper editor and publisher in Regina before he started his political career. He played a leading role in the early-century fight for the autonomy of Saskatchewan and Alberta.

When Saskatchewan came into being in 1905, he led the Liberal party to victory in the first provincial election, defeating followers of Frederick Haultain, former premier of the Northwest Territories.

Gas Station Sites Sought By Royalite

Royalite Oil Company is dickering for property for at least three service stations in the Victoria area, it was learned today.

An application for rezoning of a lot at the southeast corner of Quadra and Fifth was to go before city council later today. Two other sites are being negotiated in unspecified areas locally.

If approved, the Quadra Street station will be the first established by the company in Greater Victoria although a number have been built on the lower mainland in recent months.

Centennial Pace To Speed Up During February

The pace of centennial events on Vancouver and Gulf Islands will pick up next month.

Six events are planned for February, B.C. Centennial Committee reported today.

The schedule includes a costume dance at Fulford Harbor, Salt Spring Island, Feb. 14, centennial bonspiel at Victoria Feb. 23-28 and the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club championship contests Feb. 24-March 2.

Other February events for which no dates have been announced yet are: "From Wilderness to Wonderland" pageant at Sidney-Deep Cove; a variety show in Port Alberni; and a curling bonspiel at Nanaimo.

Why Have House Numbers If People Can't See Them?

By PENNY SAVER

What's the use of having numbers on your house if the people can't read them? Now I ask you, what's the use? It seems to me we spend hours searching in vain for houses that should have a specific number, and eventually find it was the first house we saw, with unreadable numbers!

It's particularly difficult to determine the number in the dark of night! So... get wise. Buy a new lot of numbers that shine in the dark. These reflecting house numbers are 35 cents each.

You know, this might be a good time (if the weather is fine) to touch up the exterior of the house with some shield paint. This paint protects the outside of the house from hard weather and erosion. It comes at $4.95 a gallon, and $1.50 a quart. Get busy and touch up the house!

Here's a pall to mix that paint around. It's constructed of aluminum and costs just 69 cents. This type of pall will last for years... and by the way, can be used for many other things.

This is a flower box that follows the same idea as the old type, but with a wee bit of class added! It's made of plastic and fibre glass, to withstand wet weather. These boxes come in a variety of colors and sizes, so you "green thumbs" living in an apartment or small suite can still keep up your gardening... no matter what! The price of the attractive boxes starts at $3.49.

A set of mixing bowls with spouts for easy pouring. This is what I found today. These bowls are heat resistant and come in four sizes. The colors are pretty, too, 'cause they'll match your kitchen scheme. The set costs $4.95. If you've got a shower coming up soon, think of these bowls as gifts for the bride-elect. She'll be thrilled to receive a set!

Shop with me, and phone my number 2-3131 for information.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Charm is to the personality what animation is to facial expression and what light is to the eyes. It is that indefinable quality which draws us like a magnet.

Bodily grace has that same quality. It enhances a perfectly proportioned figure and makes movement a poem. Ideals of beauty are different in different eras and even today vary in different countries. Some like their women plump while others prefer them thin.

One thing we know! A figure molded by exercise is as superior to one emaciated by unsound dieting as the bloom of health is to anemia. Of course, a controlled diet is necessary when losing weight or when just "holding that line," but diet alone will not produce a beautiful, lissome, willowy, graceful figure.

It is important to distribute your weight attractively with exercise and give your figure grace with muscular control. Spontaneous love of motion that comes with muscle tone produces a grace which nothing else can.

Turn on the radio or put on some records and twist and bend and sway and dance to the music. Move through your housework with rhythm. Make exercise a part of your every day. Swimming is one of the best exercises. You need no special equipment for walking.

But, when you walk, do so briskly and with a stride. Loitering or sauntering along will not bring you the same benefits. Gradually increase the length of your walks until you are doing four miles a day.

Tens of thousands of women now are following their routines for my 8-Week Self-Improvement Marathon. I hope that all of them, as well as the rest of you, will include exercise in your program unless there is some reason for not doing so. If you do, you will experience a sense of well being you will not otherwise have, and your figure will become much better proportioned.

My marathon booklet gives you exercises for the most usual figure defects. Whether or not you have joined a marathon, add walking and a few exercises to your daily routine.

If any of you failed to join in this eight weeks of self improvement, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. You can start your Marathon when you receive your instructions. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Compromise on Funeral Acknowledgments:

When there are about two hundred acknowledgments for one person to handle after a funeral, what is your opinion of adding a hand-written phrase or sentence on some of the engraved cards provided by the funeral home? I agree heartily with you and others that the printed or engraved card of thanks should be avoided whenever possible.

My father, who just passed away, was loved by many people. He had lived in the same community all of his life and that accounts for the many flowers, deeds and cheques sent as memorials to our church. I feel that it would take too long to write notes to each one. There are no brothers, sisters or other relatives to help.

Louise Davis Answers:

Sometimes exceptional cases like yours call for exceptional and unorthodox solutions. Your suggestion for a compromise is a good one. You used common sense and I am in favor of it, for the obligation is on your shoulders alone. Writing that many notes would be a time-taking burden and I am sure that the thoughtful people who did so many kind things know that you have no brothers, sisters or relatives who could relieve you of the task. Your "postscripts" of phrases or sentences on the engraved cards would add the personal touch which is thoughtful, yet less time-consuming. I recommend, however, that in some special cases you write short personal notes.

Dr. David Brower At Canadian Club

Guest speaker at meeting of the Women's Canadian Club this Friday afternoon at 2.30, in the Empress Hotel, will be Dr. David Brower of the United Kingdom Information Service. His subject will be "Malaya and the Changing Commonwealth."

Dr. Brower was with the armed services for seven years, posted chiefly in India and Burma. Later he entered the office of the United Kingdom high commission in India, serving in western India as regional information officer until 1953. After a short period of service in Pakistan, he spent three years in South Africa before coming to Canada in 1956.

In Vancouver, B.C., he has set up a new office for the British government, establishing a western Canada information service.

A cup of hot spiced (with cinnamon) tomato soup is a super way to start the day. Its warmth, aroma and flavor do wonders for waking up morning appetites, perking up morning spirits—and go a long way toward satisfying early-day hunger pangs and providing energy for a busy morning.

Queen Mother Talked to All At Yesterday's Reception

Following a long, exciting drive through the city of Vancouver Tuesday afternoon, with two stops en route, Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother returned to the home of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross to receive a small group of British Columbians at a tea reception.

During the tea hour, the royal visitor sat on a love seat placed near the windows of the dining room where tea was served.

Smaller chairs arranged near her were an invitation to the guests, a few at a time, to sit and chat.

"It was an experience I will never forget," said one of the guests, later Tuesday evening. "Her Majesty was so lovely—and so very friendly. We talked of the coming visit of the Princess Margaret and the Queen Mother was as interested as if she had been coming back herself."

"We also spoke of her grandchildren."

It was the same with all the guests. Her Majesty seemed to find something that would be of interest personally to each one who talked to her.

Tea was served from a table centred with a vase of garnet-toned roses and silver candelabra holding white candles.

Medical Mirror

• The Fat and the Lean

Q. Will reducing machines take off fat in the right spots?

A. No. Doctors say that you can't reduce in spots. Whether you want to "spot" reduce or reduce all over, see your doctor.

Q. When people diet to reduce do they lose more fat in the bulky places than in other parts?

A. Yes, they seem to lose more fat in places where the fat is thickest. But they also lose weight in all parts of the body, so it's not "spot" reducing.

Material in MEDICAL MIRROR is based on various scientific publications and does not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease requires the skill and knowledge which only a physician can apply by personally attending the patient.

Jubilee Hospital Auxiliary Marks Important Year With $3,607 Receipts

Following an outstanding year of achievement the Women's Auxiliary to Royal Jubilee Hospital announced total receipts of $3,607.64 Wednesday at the annual meeting in the Nurses' Residence.

Biggest money-making events of the year were recalled as a bazaar, tag day, bridge tea and coffee party.

Disbursements totalled $2,319.30, including the Lena Mitchell bursary for $400 awarded to Miss Carol Smith, a student at University of British Columbia and donations to the Student Nurses' Association, the Employees' Association, the Children's Ward Auxiliary and the B.C. Heart Foundation.

Numerous donations were given to the hospital. Perhaps most enjoyed by the patients were two television sets. Rentals from these made it possible to increase the number of sets to 10.

Other purchases for the hospital included radios, drapes, bedside lockers, coat racks (nurses' home), wheelchairs, a Stryker turning frame, silverware and white lamps for the nurses' graduation ceremony.

Other hospital equipment, yet on order, will be purchased from the past year's funds.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. F. D. Lee, and the secretary's report by Mrs. W. E. Speed.

Taking over as members of the new executive were Mrs. P. E. Corby, president; Mrs. J. L. Hobbs, first vice-president; Mrs. W. E. Speed, second vice-president; Mrs. R. R. Hopkins, treasurer; Mrs. H. G. Southin, secretary; Mrs. H. J. Pinhorn, corresponding secretary. Mrs. W. G. Thorpe is immediate past-president.

Speaking briefly at the meeting were Miss Mary Richmond, R.N., director of nursing; George Masters, hospital administrator; Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson, medical superintendent; Mrs. Leslie Macdonell, representing the auxiliaries division of the British Columbia Hospitals' Association; and J. A. Worthington, who made a monetary presentation to the auxiliary.

Mrs. W. H. Thorpe presented gifts to the retiring secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Speed and Mrs. Lee.

Following the meeting, tea was served from a table centred

$70,000 Plane Bill Defended by Gaglardi

P. A. GAGLARDI

Two aircraft operated by the Provincial Highways Department cost the government at least $70,000 in the 1956-57 fiscal year.

The expenditures are listed in two reports tabled at the current legislature session.

Largest amount is $50,196 in the annual highways report for "aircraft repairs."

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi told reporters he "thinks" this money was spent on installing two new motors and radio equipment in the department's Grumman Wildgeese.

In the public accounts for 1956-57, the highways department shows an item of $20,539 for "aircraft operation."

There is no breakdown for either figure, and it is not known if this represents the total cost to the department of the planes.

The planes are maintained and operated for the highways department under contract by Pacific Western Airlines at Patricia Bay and Vancouver Airport.

The Wildgeese is the plane used most frequently by Mr. Gaglardi on his flying junkets around the province.

The other plane, a Mark V Anson, is used occasionally by the department of lands and forests.

Mr. Gaglardi said the Wildgeese was bought by the department in a state of disrepair for $10,000. Cost of a new Wildgeese would have been about $140,000, he said.

Some $40,000 was spent on renovations, Mr. Gaglardi said.

Dr. James New Leader Of Presbytery

Election of Dr. F. E. H. James, Metropolitan United Church, as chairman of Victoria presbytery of the United Church of Canada will become effective July 1.

Dr. James was elected at a spring session Wednesday to succeed Rev. D. B. Carr of Centennial United Church.

Re-elected to office were secretary Rev. C. G. MacKenzie, Ganges United Church, Salt Spring Island, and treasurer W. L. Land.

The following were elected commissioners to the General Council of the United Church to be held in Ottawa next September: Dr. James, Mr. Carr, Rev. William Howie of the West Coast Mission board Melvin Swartout, W. T. Strath, Victoria, and Ernest Jackson, Duncan.

Kenneth Koyama, Mayne Island; Ronald Petrie, Anderson, Port Alberni; and Howard David Johnston, 1042 Princess, were accepted as candidates for the ministry.

Retirement of Rev. Walter E. Sieber, 73, minister of Cumberland United Church, effective June 30, was accepted.

School District Appointment

GANGES—Chalmers N. Peterson, of Uchelet, will begin work March 1 as secretary-treasurer of School District 64 (Salt Spring Island), it was announced today by the board of trustees.

Mr. Peterson holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Saskatchewan, and both "A" and "B" certificates for school board secretaries.

He taught for 20 years, then spent nine years as a school secretary in Saskatchewan, and the past four years as secretary of Tofino-Uchelet School District No. 79. He is married and has one daughter.

Second Mission Boat Aim of United Church

Recommendation that a second boat be added to the West Coast mission service was passed today by the home missions committee of Victoria presbytery, the United Church of Canada.

Mission work has grown to such an extent that two boats are required to tend the needs of island communities without united churches, a special committee on West Coast marine work reported.

At present the coast is served by the Melvin Swartout mission boat. It is hoped a second boat will be added this year, enabling the Swartout to work from a base in Tahsis, B.C., and the other, from Port Alberni.

Two evangelistic missions, one to the Indians, and the other to churches and factories on Vancouver Island, were approved Wednesday by the presbytery.

CHURCH MISSION

British evangelist Rev. William Gowland will conduct the industrial and church mission from Nov. 16 to 19, with evangelistic meetings in factories in Victoria, Nanaimo and Port Alberni. He is also expected to preach in local churches and at public meetings here and up Island.

Mission to the Indians will be conducted in June by Dulas Robertson of Norway House, Man. The 23-year-old Swampy Cree Indian was converted to Christianity by Rev. A. I. Avery, St. Aidan's United Church, during his ministry in Norway House.

Mr. Robertson will hold evangelistic meetings among nearly 1,000 Indians at Ahousat, Cape Mudge, Alberni, Nanaimo and other up-Island points.

Seamen Continue Wage Negotiations

Wage negotiations covering 700 seamen in coastal shipping are still continuing in Vancouver under a federal conciliation board.

Seafarers' International Union seeks increases ranging between $80 and $130 for non-licensed personnel aboard CPR and CNR ferries and other ships engaged in coastal trade.

F. E. Harrison, conciliation board chairman, said recently that hearings were being held to receive evidence from both sides.

UNDERPOWERED

Defending the purchase of the new motors, the minister said:

"The plane was underpowered. What good would it be to the department of highways if I landed on a mountain because of my poor motors?"

"What's $50,000 in comparison to a human life? My human life?"

"I don't say $50,000 isn't a lot of money, but in the first three years in office I saved the government $10,000,000 because I was able to get around."

"And the only way to get around the way I have to get around is in an airplane."

St. Matthias' Church Fills Laymen Posts

M. L. Setter has been appointed rector's warden of St. Matthias Anglican Church.

J. A. M. Moir was re-elected people's warden at the recent annual meeting.

Elected to the church committee were Nicholas Addams, Byron Barker, S. P. Birley, A. D. Johnston, Graham Malcolm, John Muir, Gerald Sadler, W. R. Strouts, Arthur Unwin and Jack Wilcox.

Synod representatives are Mr. Addams, W. T. Read, Mr. Malcolm, and substitutes, Mr. Setter and Harry Harrison.

Representatives to the rural dean conference are Mrs. W. E. Harris and Miss K. Ludwig.

The building fund loan was reduced by $14,500 last year, it was reported. Parishioners contributed $2,225 to church work outside the parish in addition to meeting current expenses of the church.

Succession Duty Measure Placed Before Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—The government Tuesday night initiated Commons action to introduce a bill intended to replace the existing Succession Duty Act.

The measure, once introduced, will be put over until next session to permit interested organizations to present their views.

Finance Minister Donald Fleming, opening debate on a preliminary resolution, said the new measure will reduce the present succession duty levies, with the greatest proportionate reduction on smaller estates.

He said the new principle of exemptions will be "a definite advance."

The basic principle of the new measure is that estates—and not the recipients of estates—will be taxed.

In cases of estates passing to widows, there will be an exemption of $60,000 plus $10,000 for each dependent child under 21.

At present, no succession duty is collected on estates of less than $50,000. But once that exemption is passed the duty is levied on the full amount of the estate, providing only that the amount of tax cannot be larger than the difference between $50,000 and the estate's value.

Alberni Church Self-Supporting

ALBERNI—Archbishop Harold E. Sexton of Victoria sent his congratulations to All Saints' Anglican Church here on the parish becoming self-supporting after 70 years as a mission church.

His message was read by Capt. C. F. Gibson at the annual parochial meeting. Officers elected were J. B. Young and R. Akenhurst, church wardens; Ed Raynor, treasurer; G. Sandeman-Allen, secretary, and W. H. R. Prescott, recorder.

More Low Cost Homes Urged by Builders

QUEBEC (CP)—Further amendments to the National Housing Act to make homes more easily available to families with "modest incomes" was urged Wednesday by the Canadian Construction Association.

The association—holding the final session of its three-day annual meeting—also urged a national highways policy, including federal assistance, and made a long list of other suggestions of interest to the construction industry.

It elected its slate of officers for the coming year with Harold J. Ball, of Kitchener, Ont., succeeding Tullis N. Carter, of Toronto, in the presidency.

DEPENDS ON LAND

In its housing recommendation—made in the form of a resolution—the association said any substantial program of low-cost housing is dependent upon the availability and cost of serviced land; that the high cost of providing feeder water mains and trunk sewers is a financial burden few municipalities can undertake, and greatly increases the cost of houses if supplied by

Charman Flies To Young Tory Ottawa Meeting

Eric Charman, president of Victoria Progressive Conservative Association, flew to Ottawa Wednesday to attend the annual meeting of the Young Progressive Conservative Association of Canada next Saturday.

"Mr. Charman is attending in his capacity as vice-president of the B.C. Young Progressive Conservatives."

"I am confident parliament will be dissolved before I leave Ottawa to return here next week," Mr. Charman said.

"A federal election cannot be delayed much longer."

Spectaculars Planned To Spark Centenary

VANCOUVER—Plans for a series of new spectaculars were laid Wednesday at the first 1958 meeting of the directors of the Vancouver centennial committee.

New events approved by the directors include a $10,000 mammoth $10,000 salmon fish derby, a marathon swim at Kilsno Beach, and two gigantic fireworks displays, the first to be held May 19, the Queen's birthday.

Other ideas brought forward included an official centennial ball to be held at three different places with four orchestras moving from place to place, and the importation of a contingent from the French Foreign Legion to be here during the Pacific National Exhibition.

Maison was drafted Tuesday by the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League in the seventh round of the league draft.

Maison said he planned to talk with coach Hampton Poole of the Toronto Argonauts this coming week before deciding whether to accept the Green Bay draft.

Surprise Wallop Didn't Stop Dave

LONDON (AP)—Recovering from an after-the-round knock-down, British lightweight champion Dave Charlney, 136½, finished with a rush-Tuesday night to win a 10-round decision over Don Jordan, 136½, of Los Angeles.

Constable Thomas Scott McKay, of Burns Lake, and John Russell McLeod of New Westminster, have pleaded not guilty to attempting to defeat the course of justice and misleading peace officers by trying to divert suspicion from McKay.

CONVICTED

PRINCE GEORGE—An American Wednesday was convicted at police court of uttering forged Confederate currency. Mrs. Patricia Whitehurst received an 18-month suspended sentence from Magistrate P. J. Morn.

She was driving north to Alaska Jan. 11 when she gave a gas station attendant the $100 bill.

Parents Told to Boycott Crime-Infested Schools

NEW YORK (AP)—The foreman of a special grand jury investigating crime in Brooklyn public schools has suggested that parents have their children boycott schools where crime is prevalent.

Foreman A. George Golden made the suggestion at a jury session Tuesday.

At the time, the grand jury had not yet learned that George Goldfarb, 55, principal of violence-tormented John Marshall Junior High School in Brooklyn, had plunged to his death from the roof of his apartment building. The district attorney's office pronounced him a suicide.

County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz promised to study

Golden's proposal, which was made in the form of a question: "Is there anything in the law that could prevent thousands of mothers and fathers from having their young children boycott the schools until something is done?"

Leibowitz said he will confer with district attorney Edward S. Silver and report back to the grand jury.

UNDER PRESSURE?

When notified of Goldfarb's death, Golden said the jurors will call in board of education officials to find out whether the principal had been under pressure or had been threatened with disciplinary action for telling the jurors last Thursday that he would like to have a policeman stationed inside his school.

The grand jury and Leibowitz favor stationing a policeman in every school in New York City but the suggestion has been turned down.

Last week a 13-year-old white girl at John Marshall reported she had been raped in the school basement by an unidentified Negro boy.

The rape resulted in Goldfarb's appearance before the grand jury. He was due to appear again Tuesday.

Patrolman Thomas Fleming, on duty outside the school, was punched by one of six youths he ordered not to loiter around the building. And the school's recreation director was assaulted by a youth in the basement of the school.

TEACHER ATTACKED

The grand jury also heard testimony that teen-aged hoodlums forced an assistant principal to quit one Brooklyn school under fear of harm, while another youth gang took control of a Brooklyn elementary school and attacked a woman teacher.

Later, Dr. Joseph C. Noethen,

New Officers Installed By Foresters

Two courts of the Independent Order of Foresters installed new officers at a recent ceremony in the White Eagle Hall.

Other executive members installed in the Victoria Court were: Harold Ker, court deputy; Robin Justice, past chief ranger; Buzz Curry, vice-chief ranger; Win Ritchie, recording secretary; Pat Hunt, treasurer; Rosa Craigie, financial secretary, and David Justice, orator.

Executive members installed in the Garden City Court were: Thelma Edwards, court deputy; Ed Veach, past chief ranger; Ted Harrison, vice-chief ranger; Marge Strong, recording secretary, and Bill Wright, treasurer.

TRAIN OF THOUGHT OKAY BUT CAR STILL A WRECK

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two men who tried to get a jump on fate with their car stalled on a railroad crossing on Vancouver's east side Wednesday night finally came to the conclusion you just can't win.

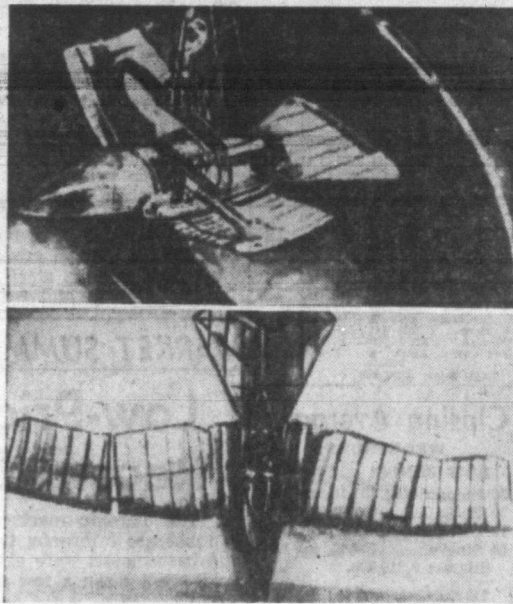

The quick-thinking pair remembered the Canadian Pacific Railway transcontinental Dominion Express was due at the crossing within minutes. They rushed to a phone booth, called the CPR, had the train held at the terminal and returned to move the car at leisure.

Back at the crossing they found the car had already been moved—by a freight train.

New Officers Installed By Foresters

Two courts of the Independent Order of Foresters installed new officers at a recent ceremony in the White Eagle Hall.

Rod Hunt was installed chief ranger of the Victoria Court, No. 1004, and Walter Dawe assumed a similar post in the Garden City Court.

Other executive members installed in the Victoria Court were: Harold Ker, court deputy; Robin Justice, past chief ranger; Buzz Curry, vice-chief ranger; Win Ritchie, recording secretary; Pat Hunt, treasurer; Rosa Craigie, financial secretary, and David Justice, orator.

Executive members installed in the Garden City Court were: Thelma Edwards, court deputy; Ed Veach, past chief ranger; Ted Harrison, vice-chief ranger; Marge Strong, recording secretary, and Bill Wright, treasurer.

TRAIN OF THOUGHT OKAY BUT CAR STILL A WRECK

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two men who tried to get a jump on fate with their car stalled on a railroad crossing on Vancouver's east side Wednesday night finally came to the conclusion you just can't win.

The quick-thinking pair remembered the Canadian Pacific Railway transcontinental Dominion Express was due at the crossing within minutes. They rushed to a phone booth, called the CPR, had the train held at the terminal and returned to move the car at leisure.

Back at the crossing they found the car had already been moved—by a freight train.

HUTCHISON IN WASHINGTON

U.S. Revives
Roosevelt's
'New Deal'

By BRUCE HUTCHISON, Editor of Victoria Daily Times

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The enemies of Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal are now reviving, rather desperately, the core of that many-sided experiment.

As the American economy enters the worst set-back since the last war the dominant figure in Washington today is a man long dead. Recovery from the present recession depends almost entirely on the economic theories of the late Maynard Keynes, an Englishman who, visiting this town in 1933, found Roosevelt economically illiterate but planted a fruitful seed in the president's mind.

At the moment, however, the Eisenhower government's experts do not know what sort of situation they have to deal with. The official theory and party line is that the economy will recover its old buoyancy by spring, or summer at latest.

But in process so vast and a system governed by millions of individual decisions from day to day, no one can be sure how business will behave even a month ahead. The government, therefore, has acted to prime the economic pump with more governmental spending and with a sharp cut in interest rates, but this is no more than a preliminary decision.

If business does not pick up by spring the government is prepared to recommend further heavy increases in its expenditures on the assumption that a real depression must not and cannot happen.

These are hard decisions for President Eisenhower whose highest objective in domestic affairs is a balanced budget. In the end, however, the decision to unbalance the budget by Keynes' prescription will not be made by the president, if it is ever made, but by the Congress.

The budget recently submitted by the president to the Congress is, in fact, a fiction or, at most, a rough chart which the legislators will alter at will.

Ike Seeks Power
For Tariff Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today asked Congress for a five-year extension of the reciprocal trade program with increased power for him to negotiate tariff cuts. He said it "is essential to America's vital national interests."

Move By Ottawa
Hints Tariff
Retaliations

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has suggested to the United States that higher U.S. tariffs on Canadian lead and zinc could lead to retaliatory Canadian action. It was shown today in documents tabled in the Commons.

The documents were an exchange of notes between the two governments last July and August, in which Canada protested a U.S. administrative proposal to hoist tariffs on these products, of which Canada sells the U.S. more than $60,000,000 worth a year.

The Canadian note expressed "serious concern" at the proposed move and indicated belief it would constitute a violation of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

"Such a development," it added, "would have unfortunate consequences on Canadian-United States trade relations and, to the extent that Canadian export interests would be affected, the Canadian government would find it necessary to consider making appropriate compensatory adjustments with a view to restoring the balance of our trade agreement."

NOTHING BUT HARM

"It is clear that restrictive action on lead and zinc by the U.S. leading to the possibility of compensatory adjustments on the part of Canada would result in nothing but harm to our two countries and would be a serious setback to our mutual efforts to maintain expanding trade opportunities in the free world."

The U.S. note in reply said the proposed new taxes on imports were regarded as the minimum measure necessary to protect the U.S. market for domestic producers.

"Without the proposed taxes," it said, "it would seem inevitable that the burden of adjustment in output would fall unduly on U.S. producers."

"It is hoped," the note added, "that the government of Canada will appreciate the urgency and complexity of the problem impelling this U.S. action."

First night sitting of the current legislative session has been called for tonight. Scheduled speakers are Herbert Bruch (SC-Esquimalt) and Arthur Turner (CCF-Vancouver East).

Queen Mother
Would Return
'Some Day'

By BESSIE FORBES, Times Women's Editor

In Vancouver yesterday afternoon Her Majesty the Queen Mother expressed a wish to return to British Columbia "some day" for a "quiet visit."

It was at the end of a tour of the city during which the royal visitor was cheered by thousands who had stood in the rain for hours to catch a glimpse of her smiling face.

Back at the residence of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor in Point Grey, a group of top-ranking citizens of the province was waiting to be presented to the Queen Mother at a tea-hour reception.

First to be received was Premier W. A. C. Bennett and then Mrs. Bennett.

The Queen Mother started immediately to talk about the province. Mrs. Bennett said later, "Her Majesty showed an amazing knowledge of British Columbia. She expressed a wish to return soon for a quiet visit and to see more of our province."

Almost as soon as the royal plane was airborne Wednesday evening and winging its way toward the Pacific Ocean, Her Majesty the Queen Mother had sent a farewell message to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross.

The message follows: "I have so much enjoyed my short visit to Vancouver and have been greatly touched by

RADIANCE
IN RAIN
AT VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Queen Mother left Vancouver Wednesday night as she arrived 24 hours earlier, a radiant smiling figure in a dismal setting of dark clouds and driving rain.

In her brief day here on the way from Britain to Australia, the gracious royal lady made light of the persistent downpour, always ready with a smile and cheerful wave for more than 25,000 persons who braved the deluge to catch a glimpse of her.

"Thanks for a lovely visit," she said to Mayor Hume as she boarded her special airliner at International Airport at 8:20 p.m. for the 10-hour flight to Honolulu.

The wonderful welcome which I have received. I send to you and to Mrs. Ross my warmest thanks for your great kindness and hospitality. Elizabeth R.

Hawaiian Governor
Greets Her Majesty

HONOLULU (AP)—The Queen Mother arrived in Honolulu in the early morning darkness today on her way to visit New Zealand and Australia.

The British Overseas Airways plane touched down at the international airport at 4:30 a.m. Hawaii time (6:30 a.m. PST) from Vancouver.

Governor and Mrs. William Quinn of the territorial government met the Queen Mother, along with J. W. S. Corbett, British consul in Hawaii.

Quinn placed the traditional flower lei around her neck as she left the plane. But he broke one tradition by not kissing her.

They were driven to Iolani Palace in Honolulu, the seat of the territorial government, and around the grounds for about 20 minutes.

During the ride, Quinn said later, he told her about the "tourist industry" in the islands, their growth, their history and geography.

It was still dark when the party returned to the airport. Just before she boarded the plane, an American Marine Corps sergeant asked her to pose for a picture. She readily consented.

The plane took off in the rain at 6 a.m. (8 a.m. PST) for New Zealand.

The 57-year-old Queen Mother sat at a window in the plane and waved to about 50 bystanders.

On Aggression
In Middle East

ANKARA, Turkey (Reuters)—The Baghdad Pact powers, and the United States today issued a new warning to Russia against subversive penetration in the Middle East.

The warning was contained in a communique winding up four days of talks here attended by cabinet ministers from the defence grouping's five member states—Britain, Iraq, Iran, Pakistan and Turkey, U.S. State Secretary Dulles was present as an observer.

The communique pledged pact members to press the "constant exposure of the familiar Communist co-existence with underdeveloped countries."

The ministers accused the Communists of attempting to exploit "nationalism, fear of war, economic distress, the plight of the Arab refugees, and national Asian sentiments."

1. Urged co-operation between the pact and "other free world regional collective security organizations."

2. Called on United Nations members to accept the concept of the United Nations Emergency Force as an instrument for use in areas of disturbance.

3. Announced that a training exercise will be held soon by the military planning staff newly established under the pact.

Stab Victims
Recovering

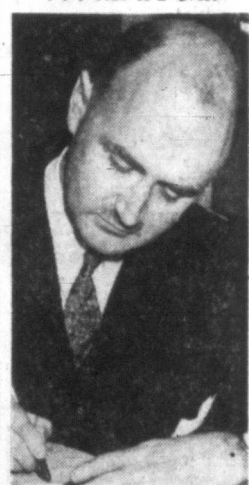

VANCOUVER (CP)—An eight-year-old girl and her father were recovering today from stab wounds suffered Wednesday in a knife and axe fracas during which the man's wife and younger daughter were killed.

Police said William M. Freeman, 33, apparently went berserk during breakfast at his suburban Burnaby home, fatally wounding his wife, Audrey, 33, and killing his daughter, Pauline, five, with a knife thrust through the heart.

In another jail cell here, Carl Fugate, his 14-year-old companion during his two-state rampage with rifle and shotgun, emerged from the influence of sedatives given her after she was brought in Wednesday. But her state of shock seemed giving way to hysteria. She repeatedly called "Mom, Mom!" from her jail cell.

CASPER, Wyo. (AP)—"I knew that if he won, I would be dead."

Softspoken, 29-year-old Joe Sprinkle, an oil company worker, thus summed up his struggle for a 22-calibre rifle Wednesday with Charles

PREMIER BENNETT
... best A-G ever.ATTORNEY-GENERAL
BONNER
... never walked away.MLA's Demand
For AG to Quit
Before Caucus

The first open revolt in Social Credit party ranks over the Sommers bribery charges left Premier Bennett today facing possibly his biggest political crisis since he took office nearly six years ago.

Legislative circles were buzzing this morning after the sensational attack launched in the House Wednesday afternoon by J. Melvin Bryan, Social Credit member for North Vancouver, who demanded Attorney-General Robert Bonner resign from office for his handling of the Sommers affair.

Bryan charged that he had supported the government in the 1956 election after assurances from Mr. Bonner that the allegations against former forests minister Robert E. Sommers were "far-fetched."

But events since then—first the appointment of a royal commission, then the laying of bribery charges—had raised doubts in the minds of thousands of British Columbians, he declared, as to the attorney-general's concepts of his office.

The time had come for the attorney-general to resign his duties in favor of someone who could fulfill all requirements of the high office.

(Text of Bryan
Statement Page 10).

One of Most Slashing Attacks

It was one of the most slashing attacks against a cabinet minister ever heard in the House from a government supporter.

Political observers recalled the scene when Premier Bennett himself made his famous "disassociation" speech from the Coalition government eight years ago and then walked across the floor to become an Independent.

But whether Bryan's move will go that far was in doubt today.

A Social Credit caucus was slated just before the House opening this afternoon.

Premier Bennett and the private members, it was expected, then, would decide whether to continue to accept the North Vancouver MLA as a member of the caucus.

First reaction of Premier Bennett was that he would not attempt to oust Bryan from the party.

Mr. Bennett was not in the House when Bryan made his demand for the attorney-general's resignation. He was attending a tea for the Queen Mother in Vancouver.

Interviewed afterwards he said he would "never invite any member to cross the floor."

He was also asked if he thought it would lead to a serious split in Social Credit ranks. He replied: "The answer is no."

The premier defended Mr. Bonner against the attack from within his own ranks by saying he is "the most outstanding attorney-general this province, or any other province has ever had."

"I couldn't disagree with anything more than with Mr. Bryan's statement," he declared.

Government members obviously were shocked by their colleague's statements, although Bryan raised the matter previously in caucus.

It appeared there was little support, if any, among Social Credit members for the stand he had taken although most defended his right to say it.

Angered by the embarrassment caused the party by Mr. Bryan, they may take a different attitude behind the closed doors of the caucus session today, however.

Bonner Says He Will Not Resign

Mr. Bryan said he definitely intended to attend the caucus meeting. In an interview, he indicated he expects to be allowed to stay on the government side of the House.

When it was learned what Mr. Bryan intended to say to the legislature, there was speculation that he would cross the floor after making his speech. He said later he had given no thought to taking this step.

For his part, Attorney-General Bonner made it clear he has no intention of resigning. He told reporters in the corridor after the House rose:

"I've never walked away from a tough job in my life and I don't intend to start now."

The House was hushed when Mr. Bryan got up to speak. Most of the members knew what was coming.

CCF leader Robert Strachan, as well as Premier Bennett, was absent. Mr. Strachan also was in Vancouver to meet the Queen Mother.

Otherwise the chamber was almost filled. Members on both sides listened in stony silence to the North Vancouver member as he read his prepared text in deliberate tones.

Mr. Bonner sat impassively through Mr. Bryan's remarks, and applauded half-heartedly at the end of his speech. His only sign of discomfort was a redness that crept up from the back of his neck as Mr. Bryan launched into his attack. But he took several notes.

Almost all the members were in the House while the member spoke, and listened quietly.

Former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers, now Social Credit MLA for Rossland-Trail, was out of the chamber when Mr. Bryan began but

YOUTH CHARGED IN MASS MURDERS

'I Knew If He Won I'd Be Dead,
Managed to Wrestle Gun Away'

(See Story page 18)

DOUGLAS, Wyo. (UP)—Charles Starkweather, 19, accused slayer of 10 and possibly 11 persons, was charged with first-degree murder here today.

In another jail cell here, Carl Fugate, his 14-year-old companion during his two-state rampage with rifle and shotgun, emerged from the influence of sedatives given her after she was brought in Wednesday. But her state of shock seemed giving way to hysteria. She repeatedly called "Mom, Mom!" from her jail cell.

CASPER, Wyo. (AP)—"I knew that if he won, I would be dead."

Softspoken, 29-year-old Joe Sprinkle, an oil company worker, thus summed up his struggle for a 22-calibre rifle Wednesday with Charles

Starkweather, 19-year-old Nebraska youth accused of 10 slayings.

Sprinkle said he was on his way from Casper to Douglas, Wyoming.

"About 15 miles east of Douglas I noticed two cars parked on opposite sides of the highway. As I passed I couldn't see anyone in either car."

He turned around and pulled up behind the west-bound car.

"I saw a young man open the highway side of the car and asked if I could help."

"He straightened up with a rifle he had hidden behind him and said: 'raise your hands. Help me release the emergency brake or I'll kill you.'"

"Then I noticed the dead man behind the wheel."

"As I approached him I grabbed the gun. We fought for it in the middle of the road. I knew that if he won I would be dead. I managed to wrestle it away from him."

"He then ran for the other car facing toward Douglas."

"My clothes were torn. As he ran a trucker pulled up and stopped. I ran to his truck. Then I saw the girl run from the Collision car to deputy sheriff Bill Romer's car."

"Then he sped away."

"I had no idea who the fellow was. I only knew that he had a gun and was going to kill me."

The car he stopped behind belonged to Merle Collison, 37-year-old shoe salesman from Great Falls, Mont. Collison was the dead man behind the wheel. The girl in the car was Carl Ann Fugate.

The rifle was not loaded. Romer pursued the accused killer and caught him after shooting at the getaway car.

Mister Bryan evidently figgers it's a lot worse 't be mute than mutinous.

What he really wants is fer Mister Bonner 't act his AG.

Canada's warnin' th' U.S. it'll be zinc or swim.

NORMAN CRIBBENS IN THE LEGISLATURE

Most debated question in political circles today is: Will Premier Bennett read Mel Bryan out of the Social Credit ranks for his revolutionary action in demanding the resignation of Attorney-General Robert Bonner?

My guess is that the Premier will do nothing of the kind. He is much more likely to point to Mr. Bryan, the young member for North Vancouver, as a shining example of "freedom of opinion" within the government ranks, offsetting the repeated suggestion that the Premier himself exercises a kind of dictatorship.

Many of the crowds packing the public galleries Wednesday afternoon expected dark-haired Mr. Bryan to cross the floor of the house and sit with the Opposition—following the example set a few years ago by Premier Bennett and Mrs. Tillie Rolston.

But Mr. Bryan stayed quietly in his seat and an anti-climactic silence followed his bold request that Mr. Bonner resign because of "public dissatisfaction" over his handling of the controversial Sommers case.

The boldness of the challenge was heightened by the fact that Mr. Bonner was the government's "top man" Wednesday, the Premier being away in Vancouver meeting the Queen Mother.

No one questioned Mr. Bryan's sincerity. The words he spoke had obviously been quietly and calmly thought out and his manner betrayed only a slight hesitation.

The flurry of white notes across the floor of the House after he sat down told their own story. Mr. Bryan was being invited to join both the Liberal and CCF ranks, but he showed no disposition to join either.

On the same side of the house Attorney-General Bonner and former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers—the key figure in the case—sat in grim silence.

Second surprise of the afternoon was 83-year-old Tom Uphill, time-honored Labor member for Fernie.

Because of unemployment in his constituency, Tom abruptly abandoned the role of legislative clown, by which he is known, and played Hamlet instead.

Without once cracking a smile, he made a dramatic appeal on behalf of 250 miners thrown out of work by the closing of the Elk River Colliery at Fernie, and urged that the Social Credit governments of B.C. and Alberta should co-operate in relieving their hardship.

"For perhaps the first time in my life I felt I couldn't joke on the floor of the House," Tom said afterwards. "The situation is too serious."

Surveying his grave features, I found it hard to believe this was the man who has been known for 38 years as the Premier of B.C. But there was no questioning the depth of his feelings.

My hope is that, come what may, we shall again see the beaming moon-face turned towards the Speaker and hear the gales of laughter as Mr. Uphill, in his quaint blend of Irish and Welsh, forces everyone to see the funny side of life.

Extending a special welcome to the new MLAs, Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook) reminded me of the popular "Head" of a boys' prep school telling the newcomers on opening day to make themselves at home (even when they are being stuck with pins).

"Don't worry about those butterflies in your stomach," he told the new members. "You will get them whether you are making your first speech or your 20th."

Dam Open To Public On Sunday

CAMPBELL RIVER — B.C. Power Commission has announced the Upper Campbell dam, which rumor said had been made unsafe because of heavy rains, will be open to the public Sunday for inspection.

Since rains have raised the level of the lake to within one foot of maximum height, the commission has been discharging water over the spillway. If the dam had not been ready there might have been flooding along the river, BCPC officials said.

Doctors Cleared In Radium Case

UTRECHT, The Netherlands (Reuters)—A six-man committee today cleared of blame doctors at the hospital where a five-year-old girl was infected with radioactivity.

The girl, Joke Haanschoten, was found to be radioactive after receiving nasal treatment at a hospital at Putten. Part of a radium needle lodged in her nose and was believed later to have been thrown into a stove at her home.

came in when he was about half-way through.

Mr. Bryan said he believed there was a principle at stake that he could not sacrifice to the interests of party unity.

The charges levelled against Mr. Sommers more than two years should have been dealt with "without any concern for political questions or party loyalties," he said.

"My considerations leave me with no alternative to an honest conviction that the attorney-general... has shown a great lack of ability to fulfill all the requirements of his high post and should resign his duties in favor of someone who can."

A number of party members, including Highways Minister Gagliardi attempted before Mr. Bryan spoke to persuade him to drop the subject of the attorney-general.

Mr. Gagliardi was closeted with the member in an adjoining committee room for almost half an hour.

At least two other MLA's tried without success to talk him out of it.

Mr. Bryan began his speech with an eight-minute statement on Mr. Bonner's role in the Sommers case, then dealt with problems of his own riding.

MORE CRITICISM

In this second part of his speech, he had more criticism for the government, specifically Mr. Gagliardi and Premier Bennett.

He criticized the highways minister for deciding to build a new bridge across Vancouver harbor at Second Narrows instead of First Narrows.

He said the premier should put into legislation his verbal assurances that revenue from the highly-profitable Lions Gate Bridge will not be used to subsidize less-used bridges of the Toll Highways and Bridges

Authority in other parts of the province.

Mr. Bryan, 45, is a former publisher of a weekly newspaper in North Vancouver. He sold out his interest last fall.

He was first elected to the Legislature in the 1956 general election.

CAUSED HUBBUB

He is the first Social Credit back-bencher to take a firm stand against the government on a major issue since the party was first elected to power in 1952.

His statement caused an immediate hubbub among Social Credit members.

More than a dozen of them gathered in the government caucus room after the House adjourned to discuss the incident.

They gave little indication what stand they will take on the issue at today's caucus.

Caucus chairman Herbert Bruch (SCEsqumalt) said it was up to the caucus to decide whether Mr. Bryan shall be allowed to stay in the party.

Government whip Bert Price took the same position. "It's up to the caucus, or Mr. Bryan," he said.

RCAF Shifts Equipment To Stations

PORT ALBERNI — Cars, trucks, a bus and an ambulance, numbering a dozen vehicles in all, were brought here by scow from Tofino Airport this week for delivery to other RCAF stations.

Smaller equipment had been moved by airlift earlier in the month. The vehicles were the last items to leave, and marked the end of the airport as a radar station.

Squirrels, Hippos 'Await' Man Invading Outer Space

NEW YORK (AP)—A United States Air Force scientist says man may find outer space crawling with these mental hazards:

Marching squirrels, smiling hippopotami, tiny rocket ships that fire pellets, and little men who swing on space ship instruments.

Reporting to a meeting of the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences, experimental psychologist George T. Hauty told of three pre-space experiments.

One of these was conducted by McGill University scientists in Montreal. They wanted to find out what happened when sights, sounds and other sense stimuli were shut off. They closed male volunteers in cubicles for 48 hours.

One subject reported "a procession of squirrels with sacks over their shoulders marching purposefully across a snowfield."

Another said he saw a miniature rocket ship shooting pellets at his arm.

MINDS CONFUSED
In addition to having hallucinations, the volunteers became irritable and were unable to concentrate on complex ideas. The volunteers were amused by the visions at first—but later complained that they interfered with their sleep.

In another experiment, Hauty confined 30 volunteers in cockpits and put them to work for 30 consecutive hours. They had to regulate and control certain occurrences using dials and buttons on instrument panels.

While allowed 20-minute breaks at meal times, they were not permitted to sleep.

These subjects also reported hallucinations such as:

"On several occasions, the instrument showed a hippopotamus smiling at me."

Another said he spent a good deal of time brushing away little men who kept swinging on the air speed indicator and preventing him from reading it.

"In space travel," said Hauty, "the human operator will certainly be denied much of the sensory experience to which he is normally accustomed."

In addition, he'll have to do jobs that are highly repetitious. Unless certain dangers are recognized and corrected before man gets into space, the human element could be the most erratic component of a space travel system.

'Deep Freeze' Victim Dies After 13 Hours

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—The 61-year-old handyman, David A. Jacobs, found in a state of "deep freeze" after lying for 13 hours in an ice-covered creek, died early today in hospital.

Circumstances of the death were not available until doctors have made a complete examination, a hospital spokesman said.

Wednesday the hospital reported Mr. Jacobs was on his way to recovery.

Mr. Jacobs tumbled down a 60-foot embankment into a creek at the back of his Oakville home. His fingers and legs were frozen.

Feuds and Fun

NOW and then, when the males of the district are gathered together with a bottle of beer apiece, or maybe a drink of rum, someone will say, "Remember the day the poles came down?"

That's when the laughter starts as they live the incident over again, fighting it blow by blow.

It happened when the electric lines in their rural district were moved several feet back from the road.

"Sure you can have the old poles," said the foreman. "Only cost us money to haul them away. We'll be making the change-over to the new poles one day next week. Don't know yet which day it'll be."

The change-over started in mid-afternoon.

"They've begun taking them down," a keen-eyed wife informed her husband. "And you'd better be quick because a man from outside the district's come along with a car and a trailer, and he's taken two poles already."

Ruth

For the next two hours the pace was hot. Truck and tractor, teenaged sons and friend from down the road were all rushed into action.

"How did it go?" asked Wife when males trooped in for supper.

Checked Shirt laughed like mad with the light of battle still shining in his usually gentle eyes. "Larry, next door, got his pole okay. Up the road, Bill was sitting on the pole outside his gate. We dragged it in for him. Couldn't leave the poor beggar just sitting there."

"And Browns?" asked Wife.

"They're guarding the pole by their place. Kids and dogs. Nobody'll get away with that one."

YOUR HEALTH

Post-Operation Ruptures

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

It is unfortunate that, with all the advances in surgery, there are many ruptures after abdominal operations, and especially those in which the wound is a long one. Always, today, a good surgeon, after an abdominal operation, closes the wound with a series of sutures. First, he will close the peritoneum, which lines the abdominal cavity. Then he will bring together one or two "fascias" or tough membranes, several sets of muscles, and finally the skin. But even with all this care hernias can form. Often they are due to the fact that, after the operation, the person who perhaps is a heavy smoker, gets a bad cough. He coughs and coughs until he breaks open the wound. Sometimes he has to be taken back to the operating room to be sewed up again.

Usually it is well to have such a rupture repaired soon. If one waits until the sac is very large, and most of the bowel is out under the skin, it will be very hard, even for the ablest surgeon, to get rid of the hernia. Any chain smoker or smoker of three packs a day, who is contemplating an operation, had better quit his smoking for a few months before the operation so that his lungs can get cleaned out. Then, perhaps, he won't cough his head off after the operation. No anesthetist wants to give a general anesthetic to a person who is a heavy smoker. His bronchi (the tubes that carry air in and out of the lungs) are usually chronically inflamed, and hence likely to be irritated by any ether that has to be used.

WOMAN WHO TALKED BACK

A number of women have flared up and written me pretty tartly in regard to my statement that, in many cases, the man's impotence is due to the fact that his wife has allowed herself to get fat and unattractive. A woman from Texas, who does not tell me if she is stout, says, "Most women are sick and tired of this argument." She feels that we physicians are the ones at fault, because we haven't been able to tell women why they tend to get overweight after they have children or after they grow older. Actually, I think we physicians can easily tell them what their trouble is. It is that they get too hungry and eat too much. What we cannot yet tell them is how to avoid getting this ravenous appetite!

"What about Smiths?" asked Wife. "They're old and they don't have a truck or tractor."

"They're fine," said Checked Shirt. "They only want one pole and they're all fixed up. We talked to them."

"And Ernie? He's down at the office, and he'll be sick if he misses out on this."

"He's got his," said Checked Shirt. "We took two up to him."

"There was a guy came up," said Solid Friend, who is built like a bulldozer and doesn't like to be pushed around. "Wanted to know by whose authority we were taking these. Did he ever rile me, after we'd got permission and all. 'I don't like your attitude,' I said, and took another hitch on the pole."

"I knew darned well I shouldn't have said it, but it was his manner and the way he came up to us. He climbed down then. 'Hey, wait a minute, fellas.' By the time we'd finished he was talking sweet as honey. Said there was a fellow who'd got a dozen of them."

Yes, that's the way it was on the day the poles came down. They're still laughing over it.

"I don't like your attitude," somebody will say.

"Hey, wait a minute, fellas."

"Remember Bill just sitting on the pole outside his gate?"

"Remember, when the guy with the car and trailer came back?"

"If we hadn't had to get ahead of him there wouldn't have been any rush or fun at all."

"I don't like your attitude."

"Hey, wait a minute, fellas."

And, from the way they laugh, you'd never think that they were respectable husbands and fathers.

They sound like a bunch of mischievous boys.

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Alvarez

My correspondent goes on to ask: "Just how many men keep from getting overweight and unattractive after they have been married some years? They get pot-bellied, bald-headed, wrinkled, baggy-eyed, slow and self-satisfied; and they think they are still God's gift to women and the world; they think that any woman should love them no matter how stout or unattractive they get!"

The lady thinks that much impotence can be traced to the man's ancestors, and I think she is right. Many a man who has inherited from some ancestors a tendency to depression or schizophrenia or a lack of interest in women rarely has much sexual interest or drive. As a young man he may never have cared for women, or he may have been very shy with them. Naturally, he tends to lose what little interest he has by the time he is 40 or so. Other men who were born with about as much sexual interest in men as in women soon lose what interest they had in the wife they married—not for love, but just to get a home.

As my correspondent goes on to say, some of the men who show little interest in sex had some of that knocked out of them by a sex-hating mother. She gave them the idea that sex is dirty and something to be ashamed of, or to be used only on rare occasions for the procreation of children. These mothers did not know that sex can be a beautiful career that can keep two people together, very happy, for 50 years or more.

My correspondent is angry because she thinks that my men patients have been complaining to me of their wives and their frigidity. But in this she is wrong. In my experience, while a man will often complain bitterly to his wife that she is "no good, and frigid, and without response," when he goes to a physician he rarely says anything about his sex life; he does not then criticize his wife.

My correspondent says: "Let's have another column giving the wife some credit for sticking by some of these old fossils and loving them until the end. Some of the women who stick by these old characters until the end need a medal instead of criticism."

I think she is right. I have often marveled at the way in which a woman who, for most of her life has had no reason to love a crabbed husband, has stayed with him. I have often marveled even more at the signs of deep love shown by a woman toward an alcoholic husband who has caused her endless unhappiness.

Red Tape Snarls UBC Students' Trip To U.S.

VANCOUVER (CP)—United States immigration officials have taken exception to the University of British Columbia's student-elected model parliament because its left wing goes a little too far left.

Cause of a hitch in the parliament's plans to visit the University of Washington at Seattle are student-legislators James MacFarlane and Victor Anderson who carry the Labor Progressive (Communist) Party banner. Immigration men say the LPP is on their black list.

Permission to enter the states was finally granted after the student council agreed to post $25 fees for each of the two, but now a further hitch has been found—Communist sympathizers are prohibited from speaking on U.S. college campuses.

University of Washington officials say they may be able to overlook the rule if MacFarlane and Anderson undertake to keep clear of politics in their remarks during the visit March 3 and 4.

Jews Appeal Against Russ Discrimination

ROME (Reuters)—World leaders of Jewry have called for the "redress of wrongs" suffered by Jews in the Soviet Union.

The appeal came in a statement Tuesday at the end of a two-day conference under the chairmanship of Dr. Nahum Goldmann, president of the World Jewish Congress.

The statement said Jews in Russia "are denied the facilities essential to the effective exercise of the rights of cultural and communal expression and of perpetuating their faith and developing their culture by the education of their children and youth."

There are an estimated 3,000,000 Jews in the Soviet Union. Many of them are in the Jewish autonomous region of Birobidjan in eastern Russia.

The statement said Russian Jews suffer from discrimination in comparison with other peoples and religious groups in the Soviet Union. In addition, they are denied the right of emigrating to Israel, it said.

A similar situation, the statement said, exists in Soviet bloc countries of Eastern Europe.

"In some of these countries, notably Romania, this has resulted in the human tragedy of thousands of broken families," it said.

Police Cool Off Rioting Students

ROME (Reuters)—Riot police Wednesday broke up student demonstrations with jets of cold water.

The students were protesting against a government proposal that graduates take a new state examination after receiving university degrees.

Forests Adviser Post Criticized

Library Group Elects Officers

Mrs. A. J. Butterfield was elected president of Friends of the Victoria Public Library at the group's annual meeting in the library music room Wednesday evening.

Arthur Corry was named vice-president and Miss Margaret Thompson and Miss M. A. Kirby were returned as secretary and treasurer, respectively. Prof. Rodney Poisson of Victoria College, retiring president, delighted the gathering with a discussion of poetry, mostly modern, with selected readings.

The government apparently felt, Mr. Nimsick said, that because of the former chief justice's great reputation throughout the province, opposition members would be hesitant to criticize forestry policy.

The CCF member criticized the appointment because he said it put the civil service "in a corner" by putting another man above it on a pedestal.

The appointment was "scandalous on the face of it," he said, because the top civil servant receives $15,000 a year, while Mr. Sloan is being paid $50,000.

If some of the experts in the B.C. Forest Service were given the same powers as Mr. Sloan, they could do the job just as well.

Fire Destroys 6 Small Planes

CHICAGO (AP) — Flames 150 feet high swept through a hangar at Midway airport Wednesday, destroying six small airplanes and causing damages estimated at $350,000.

Firemen said the blaze may have started after a gas tank in one of the airplanes exploded. No one was hurt.

I am never without T-B-C's in the house, and tell all my friends I have never found anything as satisfactory as T-B-C's for bringing quick relief from pain. Fliers in Life Fight With Automatic Pilot

BRISTOL, Eng. (Reuters) — A Britannia airliner's automatic pilot went berserk and tried to take over from the two human pilots in a violent mid-air battle, a Bristol Aircraft Company spokesman said today.

He said the desperate machine-versus-man struggle occurred on a recent test flight. It would have ended in disaster if the flight engineer had not cut off the electric power feeding the powerful robot controls. The spokesman for Bristol, "thinking" device for taking

By ELIZABETH FORBES
Times Women's Editor
Only change in Her Majesty the Queen Mother, as far as Miss Janet Tait is concerned, is in the way she does her hair.

A member of the regular Government House staff during the royal visit in 1939, Miss Tait remembers.

"Her Majesty wore her hair in a fringe over her forehead then. Now it is parted in the middle and waved back softly on either side. It looks much better."

Brought out of retirement

especially for the visit Wednesday of the Queen Mother at the Vancouver residence of Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross, Miss Tait was one of the maids on duty in the Queen's suite. She also assisted in serving.

In 1939 Miss Tait was in charge of the late King George VI's suite in Government House during the Victoria visit.

Did Her Majesty remember her, she was asked in a brief interview Wednesday evening after the royal plane had left for Honolulu.

"When she shook hands with all of us before she left for the plane, I told her," Miss Tait said, "and she said to me, 'I remember.'"

"She held my hand a bit longer too, and then she said — and she looked sad — 'much has happened since then, hasn't it?'"

The Queen Mother has changed very little in those in-between years, Miss Tait says.

"She is just as beautiful and just as friendly. And, no one can beat that smile."

Miss Tait returned to her home in the city this morning.

Over from Victoria with her were Taylor Jenkinson, head chauffeur, who drove the Queen Mother during her stay in Vancouver; the two Chinese cooks, Chung and Wing; Miss Bertha McDougall, laundry maid and two other chauffeurs, Bud Jenkinson and Will Loughhead.

Miss Mary Fraser, long-time housekeeper at Government House, missed the royal visit.

She was called to Edmonton a week ago due to the serious illness of a brother.

Teachers Threatening To 'Blacklist' Victoria

Would Bar Employment Of Needed New Staff

Greater Victoria School District is expected to be labeled a "no-agreement area" by B.C. Teachers' Federation following a break-down in teacher salary talks.

The action likely will mean a serious teacher shortage here this fall.

Fuse on the bomb is a school board report that Greater Victoria School Board will issue cheques to 687 teachers Friday, which will include a 6 per cent salary increase favored by the board but unacceptable to the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association.

A general meeting of the GVTA Wednesday unanimously rejected arbitration as a means of settling the current deadlock.

The school board has refused to negotiate further.

A news release by the GVTA following the meeting stated, "The present salary deadlock results from the board's ultimatum, and from its refusal to continue negotiations broken off by the board in mid-December."

Chairman of the GVTA salary committee, Walter Kitley, added, "The teachers feel the possibility of negotiation have not yet been sufficiently explored, and consequently the decision against seeking arbitration has been taken."

MAY NOT STRIKE

It was later learned unofficially that unless the board agrees to further talks, the teachers will take the stand that no agreement exists in this area. Under provincial legislation, they may not strike.

In this event the board likely will have grave difficulty in acquiring the 100 to 150 teachers who normally would be enrolled this September.

The board has announced expanded school enrolments mean 30 additional teachers will be required in September. Besides these, there is a normal 20 per cent turnover in teaching staff.

Any teacher filling one of these vacancies would be doing so in violation of B.C. Teacher Federation policy.

Mr. Kitley emphasized that, "It is a policy of the B.C. Teacher Federation that no teacher in B.C. will accept a position in any district where there is no salary agreement."

FRIDAY CHEQUE

School board finance chairman, Kenneth Leeming confirmed today that the January cheques for teachers, which are to be distributed Friday, will include the wage increase favoured by the board.

The boost represents an increase of 6 per cent or $192,000 over the 1957 wage bill, almost certainly a one mill increase on district taxes.

Mr. Leeming said the boost would be as great as 10 per cent for some low-scaled teaching positions and almost 4 per cent in the higher-scaled positions.

He could not comment on the possibility teachers would avoid working in this area next fall.

"We have not been officially advised of the outcome of the teachers' meeting."

"I can only repeat we set the scale after negotiations which left us far apart. The teachers stated they had nothing further to offer. The board set a scale it thought would be fair to the teachers and the taxpayers. It is close to the basic BCTF scale."

"The teachers were all provided with the scale and the salary committee was asked to advise if it was acceptable, within 21 days, or it was their privilege to ask arbitration."

"It is now 42 days since the letters went out and the board has not had a specific answer."

Mr. Kitley thought the new

Jail Sentence For Hungarians Who Stole Boat

30 Days for Three, 15 Days for Two

Five Hungarians found guilty of stealing a small boat in which they sailed across Juan de Fuca Strait in a storm Jan. 19 were given jail terms in city police court today.

Elomar Zvonas, Bela Bada and Joseph Toth each were sentenced to 30 days, while Laszlo Gezi and Joseph Labadi were sentenced to 15 days.

Through an interpreter a spokesman for the accused said "Our intention was to bring the boat back, but the storm came between."

ABANDONED

The boat, property of R. M. Barnes, of the immigration department where all accused lived, was abandoned near Port Angeles.

Magistrate H. C. Hall said "Theft in Hungary is no different from theft here. Common sense should tell you you don't go around taking things from people."

He sentenced Zvonas first. "Your probation report shows you have little inclination to work and you are a grumbler."

NOT FAVORABLE

The magistrate noted the records for Bada and Toth were not favorable and he gave them the same sentence.

Of Labadi and Gezi he noted "Your work record is quite good. It would seem you are trying to make good."

Each of the men was a ward of the immigration department.

Funeral Here for Daughter Of Saskatchewan Premier

Miss Dorothy L. Scott, only daughter of Walter Scott, and the first premier of Saskatchewan, and a former resident of Victoria, died in a Winnipeg hospital Wednesday.

The body is to be brought to Victoria and will be buried beside those of her father and mother in the family plot at Royal Oak Burial Park.

Mr. Scott was premier of Saskatchewan from 1905 to 1916. After his retirement he and his wife and daughter lived in Victoria for 15 years.

Gas Station Sites Sought By Royalite

Royalite Oil Company is dickering for property for at least three service stations in the Victoria area, it was learned today.

An application for rezoning of a lot at the southeast corner of Quadra and Fifth was to go before city council later today.

Two other sites are being negotiated in unspecified areas locally.

If approved, the Quadra Street station will be the first established by the company in Greater Victoria although a number have been built on the lower mainland in recent months.

Centennial Pace To Speed Up

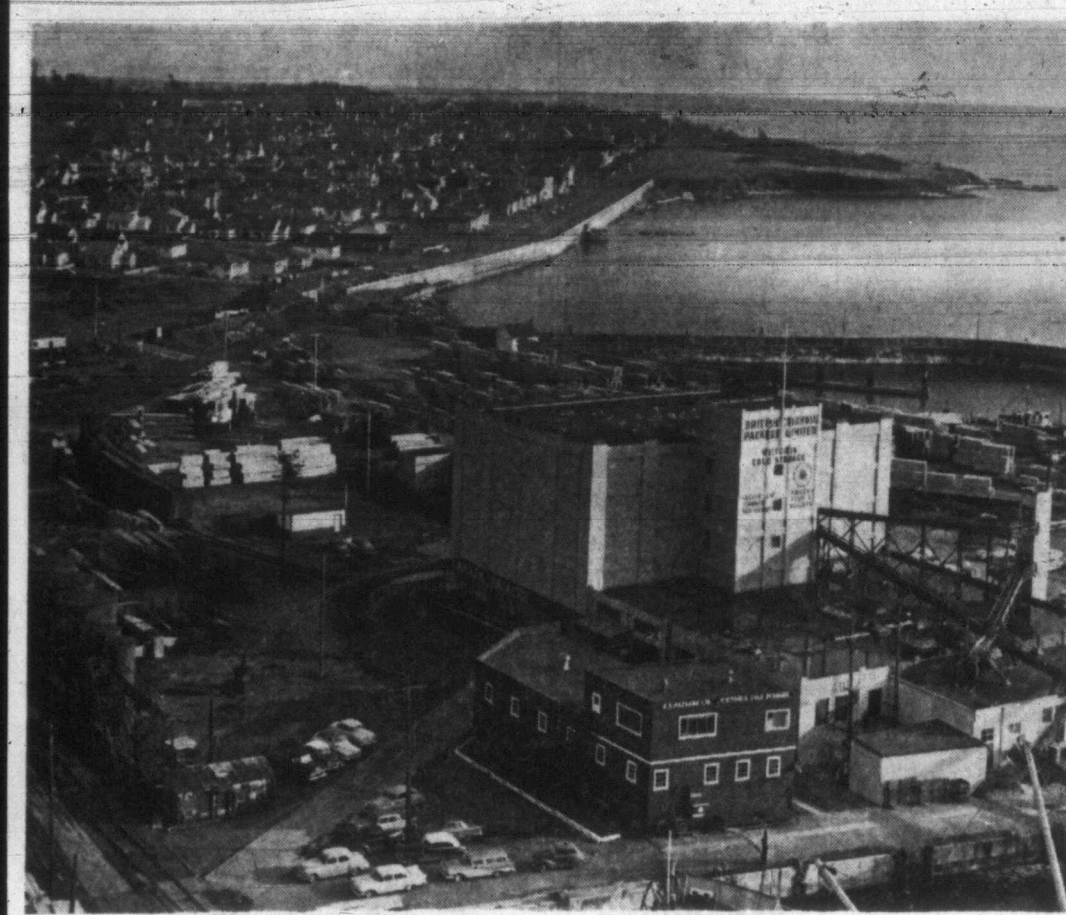

During February

The pace of centennial events on Vancouver and Gulf Islands will pick up next month.

Six events are planned for February, B.C. Centennial Committee reported today.

The schedule includes a costume dance at Fulford Harbor, Salt Spring Island, Feb. 14, a centennial bonspiel at Victoria Feb. 23-24 and the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club championship contests Feb. 24-March 2.

Other February events for which no dates have been announced yet are: "From Wilderness to Wonderland" pageant at Sidney-Deep Cove; a variety show in Port Alberni, and a curling bonspiel at Nanaimo.

City May Sell Property Now Reserved for Schools

A proposal to free for sale by the city upwards of $100,000 in residential, commercial and industrial lots, was to go to Victoria city council later today.

The property is now held in reserve for school purposes. Council finance committee has compiled a list of 42 lots now frozen for school use. The committee recommends Greater Victoria School Board be given 30 days to give reason for their retention.

The committee also says, if the board doesn't act in that time, the city should take "requisite action for their removal from such (school) reservation."

ADD TO INCOME

The action provides two opportunities for the city to add to its 1958 income.

By sale of the lots to private bidders, the fund required for construction of a new fire hall and a new garbage wharf could be considerably bolstered.

If the school board feels it requires any of the properties, council could profit by selling the lands to the board. In the past such lots have often been transferred without cost.

GROSS VALUE

However, under the present school financing system, the provincial government pays 50 per cent of the cost of property, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and Saanich pay about 25 per cent, and Victoria pays 25 per cent.

If the land is sold to the board, the city will realize about 75 per cent of the gross value.

The policy has been studied by various councils for several years but was never acted upon due to delays in obtaining a list of the properties from the school board.

The lots, with frontages of 40 to 60 feet and depths of 110 to 117 feet, are located in groups in both central and fringe areas of the city.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Harbans Singh Sangha, 2650 Prior, $15 for driving without rear mud flaps on a truck.

Margaret Carpenter, James Island, $35 and licence suspension for careless driving.

In Colwood RCMP court Wednesday: John Gordon White, Lagoon PO, $35 and $13.50 costs for careless driving.

PUBLISHER'S NOTEBOOK

Like most rules, the one which contends that you should read only for profit must be broken at least twice a year.

Just as the person on a diet is permitted to lash out occasionally in an orgy of sauces and sundae, the ardent reader should pick up a book now and then and enjoy it for the sheer fun of reading.

Such a book is "Anatomy of a Murder," which happens to be the current Book-of-the-Month choice. The critics say it is awkward, badly-stitched and discursive. They argue — a bit loftily — that it won't improve your mind and that you will learn nothing from its style.

So be it. I picked it up on a weekend trip to Vancouver and found I couldn't put it down.

"Anatomy" is the work of a Michigan judge, writing under the nom-de-pen of "Robert

Shipyard Brief On Unemployment Going to Ottawa

The president of the B.C. Shipyard General Workers' Federation will present a brief to the federal cabinet calling for measures to meet unemployment in the industry.

William Stewart, of Vancouver, has been directed to take the brief to Ottawa as "soon as possible" by the federation executive here.

The brief petitions the government to establish subsidies designed to bolster the merchant navy and to increase efforts of expanding foreign trade.

More federal orders for shipyard construction are requested. Protests against construction in foreign countries of tankers and freighters to be used in B.C. coastal waters are included.

Sam Jenkins, president of Local 1, Marine Workers' and Boilermakers' Independent Union, is expected to accompany Mr. Stewart.

Due Processes of Law

Traver. The pseudonym is a bit puzzling, since the dust jacket carries a full-length portrait of the author. This is scarcely concealment, but never mind.

The story he tells is quite simple: of a young army officer whose wife is raped by the town inn-keeper, and forthwith sets out to ventilate him with a luger pistol. As you may have suspected, the book tells of his defence (temporary insanity) and trial.

Herein lies the great interest of the story—the research involved in preparing a case, the sparring of rival counsel, the reactions of a truly wise judge.

To the layman, and particularly the Canadian layman, it is engrossing to sit in as an American lawyer gives his client what is known as The Lecture—the business in which, though he is forbidden to coach the defendant, he must subtly suggest the best defence permitted by the law. Polly Biegler's client, Lieutenant Manion, catches on quickly. Not only sane, but shrewd, he makes a persuasive case and it's a hard-hearted reader who won't be praying for his acquittal, despite a somewhat obnoxious personality.

Critics or no, "Anatomy of a Murder" makes corks good reading, these dark January nights.

Why Have House Numbers If People Can't See Them?

By PENNY SAVER

What's the use of having numbers on your house, if the people can't read them? Now I ask you, what's the use? It seems to me we spend hours searching in vain for houses that should have a specific number, and eventually find it was the first house we saw, with unreadable numbers!

It's particularly difficult to determine the number in the dark of night! So... get wise. Buy a new lot of numbers that shine in the dark. These reflecting house numbers are 35 cents each.

You know, this might be a good time (if the weather is fine) to touch up the exterior of the house with some shield paint. This paint protects the outside of the house from hard weather and erosion. It comes at $4.95 a gallon, and $1.50 a quart. Get busy and touch up the house!

Here's a pail to mix that paint around. It's constructed of aluminum and costs just 69 cents. This type of pail will last for years... and by the way, can be used for many other things.

This is a flower box that follows the same idea as the old type, but with a wee bit of class added! It's made of plastic and fibre glass, to withstand wet weather. These boxes come in a variety of colors and sizes, so you "green thumbs" living in an apartment or small suite can still keep up your gardening... no matter what! The price of the attractive boxes starts at $3.49.

A set of mixing bowls with spouts for easy pouring. This is what I found today. These bowls are heat resistant and come in four sizes. The colors are pretty, too, 'cause they'll match your kitchen scheme. The set costs $4.95. If you've got a shower coming up soon, think of these bowls as gifts for the bride-elect. She'll be thrilled to receive a set!

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Charm is to the personality what animation is to facial expression and what light is to the eyes. It is that indefinable quality which draws us like a magnet.

Bodily grace has that same quality. It enhances a perfectly proportioned figure and makes movement a poem. Ideals of beauty are different in different eras and even today vary in different countries. Some like their women plump while others prefer them thin.

One thing we know! A figure molded by exercise is as superior to one emaciated by un-sound dieting as the bloom of health is to anemic. Of course, a controlled diet is necessary when losing weight or when just "holding that line," but diet alone will not produce a beautiful, lissome, willowy, graceful figure.

It is important to distribute your weight attractively with exercise and give your figure grace with muscular control. Spontaneous love of motion that comes with muscle tone produces a grace which nothing else can.

Turn on the radio or put on some records and twist and bend and sway and dance to the music. Move through your housework with rhythm. Make exercise a part of your every day. Swimming is one of the best exercises. You need no special equipment for walking.

But, when you walk, do so briskly and with a stride. Loitering or sauntering along will not bring you the same benefits. Gradually increase the length of your walks until you are doing four miles a day.

Tens of thousands of women now are following their routines for my 8-Week Self-Improvement Marathon. I hope that all of them, as well as the rest of you, will include exercise in your program unless there is some reason for not doing so. If you do, you will experience a sense of well being you will not otherwise have, and your figure will become much better proportioned.

My marathon booklet gives you exercises for the most usual figure defects. Whether or not you have joined marathon, add walking and a few exercises to your daily routine.

If any of you failed to join in this eight weeks of self improvement, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. You can start your Marathon when you receive your instructions. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

On Etiquette

Compromise on Funeral Acknowledgments:

When there are about two hundred acknowledgments for one person to handle after a funeral, what is your opinion of adding a hand-written phrase or sentence on some of the engraved cards provided by the funeral home? I agree heartily with you and others that the printed or engraved card of thanks should be avoided whenever possible.

My father, who just passed away, was loved by many people. He had lived in the same community all of his life and that accounts for the many flowers, deeds and cheques sent as memorials to our church. I feel that it would take too long to write notes to each one. There are no brothers, sisters or other relatives to help.

Louise Davis Answers:

Sometimes exceptional cases like yours call for exceptional and unorthodox solutions. Your suggestion for a compromise is a good one. You used common sense and I am in favor of it, for the obligation is on your shoulders alone. Writing that many notes would be a time-taking burden and I am sure that the thoughtful people who did so many kind things know that you have no brothers, sisters or relatives who could relieve you of the task. Your "postscripts" of phrases or sentences on the engraved cards would add the personal touch which is thoughtful, yet less time-consuming. I recommend, however, that in some special cases you write short personal notes.

$70,000 Plane Bill Defended by Gaglardi

P. A. GAGLARDI

Two aircraft operated by the Provincial Highways Department cost the government at least $70,000 in the 1956-57 fiscal year.

The expenditures are listed in two reports tabled at the current legislature session.

Largest amount is $50,196 in the annual highways report for "aircraft repairs."

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi told reporters he "thinks" this money was spent on installing two new motors and radio equipment in the department's Grumman Widgeon.

In the public accounts for 1956-57, the highways department shows an item of $20,539 for "aircraft operation."

There is no breakdown for either figure, and it is not known if this represents the total cost to the department of the planes.

The planes are maintained and operated for the highways department under contract by Pacific Western Airlines at Patricia Bay and Vancouver Airport.

SECOND PLANE
The Widgeon is the plane used most frequently by Mr. Gaglardi on his flying junkets around the province.

The other plane, a Mark V Anson, is used occasionally by the department of lands and forests.

Mr. Gaglardi said the Widgeon was bought by the department in a state of disrepair for $10,000. Cost of a new Widgeon would have been about $140,000, he said.

Some $40,000 was spent on renovations, Mr. Gaglardi said.

Dr. James
Of Presbytery

Election of Dr. F. E. H. James, Metropolitan United Church, as chairman of Victoria presbytery of the United Church of Canada will become effective July 1.

Dr. James was elected at a spring session Wednesday to succeed Rev. D. B. Carr of Centennial United Church.

Re-elected to office were secretary Rev. C. G. MacKenzie, Ganges United Church, Salt Spring Island, and treasurer W. L. Land.

The following were elected commissioners to the General Council of the United Church to be held in Ottawa next September: Dr. James, Mr. Carr, Rev. William Howie of the West Coast Mission boat Melvin Swartout, W. T. Straith, Victoria, and Arthur Mann, Duncan, and Ernest Jackson, Chemainus.

Kenneth Koyama, Mayne Island; Ronald Peter Anderson, Port Alberni; and Howard David Johnston, 1042 Princess, were accepted as candidates for the ministry.

Retirement of Rev. Walter E. Sieber, 73 minister of Cumberland United Church, effective June 30, was accepted.

School District
Appointment

GANGES—Chalmers N. Peterson, of Ucluelet, will begin work March 1 as secretary-treasurer of School District 64 (Salt Spring Island). It was announced today by the board of trustees.

Mr. Peterson holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Saskatchewan, and both "A" and "B" certificates for school board secretaries.

He taught for 20 years, then spent nine years as a school secretary in Saskatchewan, and the past four years as secretary of Tofino-Ucluelet School District No. 79. He is married and has one daughter.

Second Mission Boat
Aim of United Church

Recommendation that a second boat be added to the West Coast mission service was passed today by the home missions committee of Victoria presbytery, the United Church of Canada.

Mission work has grown to such an extent that two boats are required to tend the needs of island communities without united churches, a special committee on West Coast marine work reported.

At present the coast is served by the Melvin Swartout mission boat. It is hoped a second boat will be added this year, enabling the Swartout to work from a base in Tahsis, B.C., and the other, from Port Alberni.

Two evangelistic missions, one to the Indians, and the other to churches and factories on Vancouver Island, were approved Wednesday by the presbytery.

CHURCH MISSION
British evangelist Rev. William Gowland will conduct the industrial and church mission from Nov. 16 to 19, with evangelistic meetings in factories in Victoria, Nanaimo and Port Alberni. He is also expected to preach in local churches and at and a further $50,000 for new engines and radio equipment.

UNDERPOWERED
Defending the purchase of the new motors, the minister said:

"The plane was underpowered. What good would it be to the department of highways if I landed on a mountain because of my poor motors?"

"What's $50,000 in comparison to a human life? My human life?"

"I don't say $50,000 isn't a lot of money, but in the first three years in office I saved the government $10,000,000 because I was able to get around."

"And the only way to get around the way I have to get around is in an airplane."

St. Matthias' Church Fills Laymen Posts

M. L. Setter has been appointed rector's warden of St. Matthias Anglican Church.

J. A. M. Moir was re-elected people's warden at the recent annual meeting.

Elected to the church committee were Nicholas Addams, Byron Barker, S. P. Birley, A. D. Johnston, Graham Malcolm, John Muir, Gerald Sadler, W. R. Strouts, Arthur Unwin and Jack Willcox.

Synod representatives are Mr. Addams, W. T. Read, Mr. Malcolm, and substitutes, Mr. Setter and Harry Harrison.

Representatives to the rural-decennial conference are Mrs. W. E. Harris and Miss K. Ludwig.

The building fund loan was reduced by $14,500 last year, it was reported. Parishioners contributed $2,225 to church work outside the parish in addition to meeting current expenses of the church.

Succession Duty Measure Placed Before Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—The government Tuesday night initiated Commons action to introduce a bill intended to replace the existing Succession Duty Act.

The measure, once introduced, will be put over until next session to permit interested organizations to present their views.

Finance Minister Donald Fleming, opening debate on a preliminary resolution, said the new measure will reduce the present succession duty levies, with the greatest proportionate reduction on smaller estates.

He said the new principle of exemptions will be "a definite advance."

The basic principle of the new measure is that estates—and not the recipients of estates—will be taxed.

In cases of estates passing to widows, there will be an exemption of $60,000 plus $10,000 for each dependent child under 21.

At present, no succession duty is collected on estates of less than $50,000. But once that figure is passed the duty is levied on the full amount of the estate, providing only that the amount of tax cannot be larger than the difference between $50,000 and the estate's value.

Alberni Church Self-Supporting

ALBERNI—Archbishop Harold E. Sexton of Victoria sent his congratulations to All Saints' Anglican Church here on the parish becoming self-supporting after 70 years as a mission church.

His message was read by Capt. C. F. Gibson at the annual parochial meeting. Officers elected were J. B. Young and R. Akenhurst, church wardens; Ed Raynor, treasurer; G. Sandeman-Allen, secretary, and W. H. R. Prescott, recorder.

More Low Cost Homes Urged by Builders

QUEBEC (CP)—Further amendments to the National Housing Act to make homes more easily available to families with "modest incomes" was urged Wednesday by the Canadian Construction Association.

The association—holding the final session of its three-day annual meeting—also urged a national highways policy, including federal assistance, and made a long list of other suggestions of interest to the construction industry.

It elected its slate of officers for the coming year with Harold J. Ball, of Kitchener, Ont., succeeding Tullis N. Carter, of Toronto, in the presidency.

DEFENDS ON LAND
In its housing recommendation—made in the form of a resolution—the association said any substantial program of low-cost housing is dependent upon the availability and cost of serviced land; that the high cost of providing feeder water mains and trunk sewers is a financial burden few municipalities can undertake, and greatly increases the cost of houses if supplied by

Spectaculars Planned To Spark Centenary

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—Plans for a series of new spectaculars were laid Wednesday at the first 1958 meeting of the directors of the Vancouver centennial committee.

New events approved by the directors include a $10,000 mammoth $10,000 salmon fish derby, a marathon swim at Kitsilano Beach, and two gigantic fireworks displays, the first to be held May 19, the Queen's birthday.

Other ideas brought forward included an official centennial ball to be held at three different places with four orchestras moving from place to place, and the importation of a contingent from the French Foreign Legion to be here during the Pacific National Exhibition.

PO OPENING SET
VANCOUVER—The new $13,000,000 post office here will open its doors to the public on March 13. The ultra-modern structure, the largest welded steel frame building in the world, will be officially opened by Public Works Minister Howard Green and Postmaster-General William Hamilton.

THREATEN TO QUIT
CHILLIWACK—District 33 school board will resign en masse if a salary agreement with district teachers has not been reached by negotiation or arbitration by Feb. 14, a spokesman for the board said Wednesday.

NEGOTIATIONS between teachers and the board reached a stalemate last week. Both sides have named arbitration representatives.

NEW YORK (AP)—The foreman of a special grand jury investigating crime in Brooklyn public schools has suggested that parents have their children boycott schools where crime is prevalent.

Foreman A. George Golden made the suggestion at a jury session Tuesday.

At the time, the grand jury had not yet learned that George Goldfarb, 55, principal of violence-tormented John Marshall Junior High School in Brooklyn, had plunged to his death from the roof of his apartment building. The district attorney's office pronounced him a suicide.

County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz promised to study

Golden's proposal, which was made in the form of a question: "Is there anything in the law that could prevent thousands of mothers and fathers from having their young children boycott the schools until something is done?"

Leibowitz said he will confer with district attorney Edward S. Silver and report back to the grand jury.

UNDER PRESSURE?
When notified of Goldfarb's death, Golden said the jurors will call in board of education officials to find out whether the principal had been under pressure or had been threatened with disciplinary action for telling the jurors last Thursday that he would like to have a policeman stationed inside his school.

The grand jury and Leibowitz favor stationing a policeman in every school in New York City but the suggestion has been turned down.

Last week a 13-year-old white girl at John Marshall reported she had been raped in the school basement by an unidentified Negro boy.

The rape resulted in Goldfarb's appearance before the grand jury. He was due to appear again Tuesday.

Patrolman Thomas Fleming, on duty outside the school, was punched by one of six youths he ordered not to loiter around the building. And the school's recreation director was assaulted by a youth in the basement of the school.

TEACHER ATTACKED
The grand jury also heard testimony that teen-aged hoodlums forced an assistant principal to quit one Brooklyn school under fear of harm, while another youth gang took control of a Brooklyn elementary school and attacked a woman teacher.

TRAIN OF THOUGHT OKAY BUT CAR STILL A WRECK

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two men who tried to get a jump on fate with their car stalled on a railroad crossing on Vancouver's east side Wednesday night finally came to the conclusion you just can't win.

The quick-thinking pair remembered the Canadian Pacific Railway transcontinental Dominion Express was due at the crossing within minutes. They rushed to a phone booth, called the CPR, had the train held at the terminal and returned to move the car at leisure.

Back at the crossing they found the car had already been moved—by a freight train.

MAISON TO TALK Terms With Argos

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP)—Doug Maison, Hillsdale College's star quarterback, says he will consider offers from Canada before deciding whether to play football in the United States.

Maison was drafted Tuesday by the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League in the seventh round of the league draft.

Maison said he planned to talk with coach Hampton Poole of the Toronto Argonauts this coming week before deciding whether to accept the Green Bay draft.

LONDON (AP)—Recovering from an after-the-round knockdown, British lightweight champion Dave Charnley, 136½, finished with a rush Tuesday night to win a 10-round decision over Don Jordan, 136½, of Los Angeles.

Record Donations Reported By Church

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Lutheran Church reported Wednesday that contributions from its 32 synods to the church's national and overseas program reached an all-time high in 1957 of $10,187,169.

Dr. Edmund F. Wagner, treasurer, said the new figures compare with $10,011,720 in 1956 and $8,642,134 in 1955.

TRAIN OF THOUGHT OKAY BUT CAR STILL A WRECK

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two men who tried to get a jump on fate with their car stalled on a railroad crossing on Vancouver's east side Wednesday night finally came to the conclusion you just can't win.

The quick-thinking pair remembered the Canadian Pacific Railway transcontinental Dominion Express was due at the crossing within minutes. They rushed to a phone booth, called the CPR, had the train held at the terminal and returned to move the car at leisure.

Back at the crossing they found the car had already been moved—by a freight train.

HUTCHISON IN WASHINGTON

U.S. Revives
Roosevelt's
'New Deal'

By BRUCE HUTCHISON, Editor of Victoria Daily Times
WASHINGTON, D.C.—The enemies of Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal are now reviving, rather desperately, the core of that many-sided experiment.

As the American economy enters the worst setback since the last war the dominant figure in Washington today is a man long dead. Recovery from the present recession depends almost entirely on the economic theories of the late Maynard Keynes, an Englishman who, visiting this town in 1933, found Roosevelt economically illiterate but planted a fruitful seed in the president's mind.

At the moment, however, the Eisenhower government's experts do not know what sort of situation they have to deal with. The official theory and party line is that the economy will recover its old buoyancy by spring, or summer at latest.

But in process so vast and a system governed by millions of individual decisions from day to day, no one can

Queen Mother
Would Return
'Some Day'

By BESSIE FORBES, Times Women's Editor

In Vancouver yesterday afternoon Her Majesty the Queen Mother expressed a wish to return to British Columbia "some day" for a "quiet visit."

It was at the end of a tour of the city during which the royal visitor was cheered by thousands who had stood in the rain for hours to catch a glimpse of her smiling face.

Back at the residence of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor in Point Grey, a group of top-ranking citizens of the province was waiting to be presented to the Queen Mother at a tea-hour reception.

First to be received was Premier W. A. C. Bennett and then Mrs. Bennett.

The Queen Mother started immediately to talk about the province.

Mrs. Bennett said later, "Her Majesty showed an amazing knowledge of British Columbia. She expressed a wish to return soon for a quiet visit and to see more of our province."

Almost as soon as the royal plane was airborne Wednesday evening and winging its way toward the Pacific Ocean, Her Majesty the Queen Mother had sent a farewell message to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross.

The message follows:

I have so much enjoyed my short visit to Vancouver and have been greatly touched by the wonderful welcome which I have received. I send to you and to Mrs. Ross my warmest thanks for your great kindness and hospitality. Elizabeth R.

HONOLULU (AP)—The

Queen Mother arrived in Honolulu in the early morning darkness today on her way to visit New Zealand and Australia.

The British Overseas Airways plane touched down at the international airport at 4:30 a.m. Hawaii time 4:43 a.m. PST from Vancouver.

Governor and Mrs. William Quinn of the territorial government met the Queen Mother, along with J. W. S. Corbett, British consul in Hawaii.

Quinn placed the traditional flower lei around her neck as she left the plane. But he broke one tradition by not kissing her.

They were driven to Iolani Palace in Honolulu, the seat of the territorial government, and around the grounds for about 20 minutes.

During the ride, Quinn said later, he told her about the "tourist industry" in the islands, their growth, their history and geography.

It was still dark when the party returned to the airport.

Just before she boarded the plane, an American Marine Corps sergeant asked her to pose for a picture. She readily consented.

The plane took off in the rain at 6 a.m. (8 a.m. PST) for New Zealand.

The 57-year-old Queen Mother sat at a window in the plane and waved to about 50 bystanders.

Unemployment
House Probe

The legislative labor committee, which this year will deal with the unemployment problem, will hold its first meeting Friday.

First item on the agenda is the crisis at the interior mining town of Fernie, where 400 men are threatened with layoffs by the closure of the Crown's Nest Pass Coal Co. colliery at Elk River.

LONDON (Reuters)—A passenger train roared out of dense fog tonight and crashed into the back of another near suburban Dagenham.

First reports said at least six persons were killed and 30 injured.

An engine and a coach were derailed in the crash between Heathway and Dagenham stations.

A police spokesman said six persons were trapped in the wreckage and believed dead.

"There are at least 30 injured," he said.

The crash—the second in the Greater London area in fog this winter—happened when a train from Fenchurch Street station in London, bound for Shoeburyness, plowed into the rear of a train that had left the same station for Southend 15 minutes earlier.

The locomotive of the Shoeburyness train and the rear coach of the southern train were derailed.

Move By Ottawa
Hints Tariff
Retaliations

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has suggested to the United States that higher U.S. tariffs on Canadian lead and zinc could lead to retaliatory Canadian action. It was shown today in documents tabled in the Commons.

The documents were an exchange of notes between the two governments last July and August, in which Canada protested a U.S. administrative proposal to hoist tariffs on these products, of which Canada sells the U.S. more than $60,000,000 worth a year.

The Canadian note expressed "serious concern" at the proposed move and indicated belief it would constitute a violation of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

"Such a development," it added, "would have unfortunate results."

Caucus Avoids Subject

BULLETIN

A government members' caucus this afternoon took no action against rebel North Vancouver Social Credit MLA Melvin Bryan, who called Wednesday for the resignation of Attorney-General Bonner.

Mr. Bryan emerged from the hour-long meeting and told a reporter: "I am still a member. He would not comment further."

Neither the attorney-general nor Premier Bennett attended the caucus meeting, which was expected to decide whether Mr. Bryan should be expelled.

It was indicated that the subject was deliberately avoided at the caucus and the government intends to try and ride the storm out without disciplining the member.

Premier Bennett said he had been kept away from the caucus by a "rush of business." He denied that he had stayed away because of the Bryan incident.

The premier was asked if he thought there was any parallel between Mr. Bryan's statements Wednesday and his own action in bolting the Coalition government in 1951.

"The answer is none," the premier said.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at the emergency ward of Royal Jubilee Hospital. He was believed to be the victim of a heart attack.

Storm Develops
As MLA Demands
Bonner Resign

The first open revolt in Social Credit party ranks over the Sommers bribery charges left Premier Bennett today facing possibly his biggest political crisis since he took office nearly six years ago.

Legislative circles were buzzing this morning after the sensational attack launched in the House Wednesday afternoon by J. Melvin Bryan, Social Credit member for North Vancouver, who demanded Attorney-General Robert Bonner resign from office for his handling of the Sommers affair.

Bryan charged that he had supported the government in the 1956 election after assurances from Mr. Bonner that the allegations against former forests minister Robert E. Sommers were "far-fetched."

But events since then—first the appointment of a royal commission, then the laying of bribery charges—had raised doubts in the minds of thousands of British Columbians, he declared, as to the attorney-general's concepts of his office.

The time had come for the attorney-general to resign his duties in favor of someone who could fulfill all requirements of the high office.

Statement Page 10)

One of Most Slashing Attacks

Interviewed afterwards he said he would "never invite any member to cross the floor."

It was one of the most slashing attacks against a cabinet minister ever heard in the House from a government supporter.

Political observers recalled the scene when Premier Bennett himself made his famous "disassociation" speech from the Coalition government eight years ago and then walked across the floor to become an Independent.

But whether Bryan's move will go that far was in doubt today.

A Social Credit caucus was slated just before the House opening this afternoon.

First reaction of Premier Bennett was that he would not attempt to oust Bryan from the party.

Mr. Bennett was not in the House when Bryan made his demand for the attorney-general's resignation. He was attending a tea for the Queen Mother in Vancouver.

Bonner Says He Will Not Resign

Mr. Bryan said he definitely intended to attend the caucus meeting. In an interview, he indicated he expects to be allowed to stay on the government side of the House.

When it was learned what Mr. Bryan intended to say to the legislature, there was speculation that he would cross the floor after making his speech. He said later he had given no thought to taking this step.

For his part, Attorney-General Bonner made it clear he has no intention of resigning. He told reporters in the corridor after the House rose:

"I've never walked away from a tough job in my life and I don't intend to start now."

The House was hushed when Mr. Bryan got up to speak. Most of the members knew what was coming.

CCF leader Robert Strachan, as well as Premier Bennett, was absent. Mr. Strachan also was in Vancouver to meet the Queen Mother.

Otherwise the chamber was almost filled. Members on both sides listened in stony silence to the North Vancouver member as he read his prepared text in deliberate tones.

Mr. Bonner sat impassively through Mr. Bryan's remarks, and applauded half-heartedly at the end of his speech. His only sign of discomfort was a redness that crept up from the back of his neck as Mr. Bryan launched into his attack. But he took several notes.

Almost all the members were in the House while the member spoke, and listened quietly.

Former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers, now Social Credit MLA for Rossland-Trail, was out of the chamber when Mr. Bryan began but

Seen in Pulp Strike

Settlement possibilities in the province-wide pulp strike appeared stronger as union-management talks stretched into the seventh day this afternoon.

The talks continued in Vancouver as the strike entered its 12th week. Three previous attempts to settle the wage dispute each broke down within two days.

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks who said he had been working on the sidelines in the negotiations, said also he would not personally attend today's talks. "The 6,000 union workers struck for 12 per cent wage increases after rejecting a conciliation board recommendation of 7½ per cent."

NORMAN CRIBBENS IN THE LEGISLATURE

Most debated question in political circles today is: Will Premier Bennett read Mel Bryan out of the Social Credit ranks for his revolutionary action in demanding the resignation of Attorney-General Robert Bonner?

My guess is that the Premier will do nothing of the kind. He is much more likely to point to Mr. Bryan, the young member for North Vancouver, as a shining example of "freedom of opinion" within the government ranks, offsetting the repeated suggestion that the Premier himself exercises a kind of dictatorship.

Many of the crowds packing the public galleries Wednesday afternoon expected dark-haired Mr. Bryan to cross the floor of the house and sit with the Opposition—following the example set a few years ago by Premier Bennett and Mrs. Tillie Rolston.

But Mr. Bryan stayed quietly in his seat and an anticlimactic silence followed his bold request that Mr. Bonner resign because of "public dissatisfaction" over his handling of the controversial Somers case.

The boldness of the challenge was heightened by the fact that Mr. Bonner was the government's "top man" Wednesday, the Premier being away in Vancouver meeting the Queen Mother.

No one questioned Mr. Bryan's sincerity. The words he spoke had obviously been quietly and calmly thought out and his manner betrayed only a slight hesitation.

The flurry of white notes across the floor of the House after he sat down told their own story. Mr. Bryan was being invited to join both the Liberal and CCF ranks, but he showed no disposition to join either.

On the same side of the house Attorney-General Bonner and former lands and forests minister Robert Somers—the key figure in the case—sat in grim silence.

Second surprise of the aft-

noon was 83-year-old Tom Uphill, time-honored Labor member for Fernie.

Because of unemployment in his constituency, Tom abruptly abandoned the role of legislative clown, by which he is known, and played Hamlet instead.

Without once cracking a smile, he made a dramatic appeal on behalf of 250 miners thrown out of work by the closing of the Elk River Colliery at Fernie, and urged that the Social Credit governments of B.C. and Alberta should co-operate in relieving their hardship.

"For perhaps the first time in my life I felt I couldn't joke on the floor of the House," Tom said afterwards. "The situation is too serious."

Surveying his grave features, I found it hard to believe this was the man who has been known for 38 years as the Premier of B.C. But there was no questioning the depth of his feelings.

My hope is that, come what may, we shall again see the beaming moon-face turned towards the Speaker and hear the gales of laughter as Mr. Uphill, in his quaint blend of Irish and Welsh, forces everyone to see the funny side of life.

Extending a special welcome to the new MLAs, Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook) reminded me of the popular "Head" of a boys' prep school telling the newcomers on opening day to make themselves at home (even when they are being stuck with pins).

"Don't worry about those butterflies in your stomach," he told the new members. "You will get them whether you are making your first speech or your 20th."

Dam Open To Public On Sunday

CAMPBELL RIVER — B.C. Power Commission has announced the Upper Campbell dam, which rumor said had been made unsafe because of heavy rains, will be open to the public Sunday for inspection.

Since rains have raised the level of the lake to within one foot of maximum height, the commission has been discharging water over the spillway. If the dam had not been ready there might have been flooding along the river, BCPC officials said.

Doctors Cleared In Radium Case

UTRECHT, The Netherlands (Reuters)—A six-man committee today cleared of blame doctors at the hospital where a five-year-old girl was infected with radioactivity.

The girl, Joke Haanschoten, was found to be radioactive after receiving nasal treatment at a hospital at Putten. Part of a radium needle lodged in her nose and was believed later to have been thrown into a stove at her home.

came in when he was about half-way through.

Mr. Bryan said he believed there was a principle at stake that he could not sacrifice to the interests of party unity.

The charges levelled against Mr. Somers more than two years should have been dealt with "without any concern for political questions or party loyalties," he said.

"My considerations leave me with no alternative to an honest conviction that the attorney-general... has shown a great lack of ability to fulfill all the requirements of his high post and should resign his duties in favor of someone who can."

A number of party members, including Highways Minister Gagliardi attempted before Mr. Bryan spoke to persuade him to drop the subject of the attorney-general.

Mr. Gagliardi was closeted with the member in an adjoining committee room for almost half an hour.

At least two other MLAs tried without success to talk him out of it.

Mr. Bryan began his speech with an eight-minute statement on Mr. Bonner's role in the Somers case, then dealt with problems of his own riding.

MORE CRITICISM

In this second part of his speech, he had more criticism for the government, specifically Mr. Gagliardi and Premier Bennett.

He criticized the highways minister for deciding to build a new bridge across Vancouver harbor at Second Narrows instead of First Narrows.

He said the premier should put into legislation his verbal assurances that revenue from the highly-profitable Lions Gate Bridge will not be used to subsidize less-used bridges of the Toll Highways and Bridges station.

Mr. Bryan, 45, is a former publisher of a weekly newspaper in North Vancouver. He sold out his interest last fall.

He was first elected to the Legislature in the 1936 general election.

CAUSED HUBBUB

He is the first Social Credit back-bencher to take a firm stand against the government on a major issue since the party was first elected to power in 1932.

His statement caused an immediate hubbub among Social Credit members.

More than a dozen of them gathered in the government caucus room after the House adjourned to discuss the incident.

They gave little indication what stand they will take on the issue at today's caucus.

Caucus chairman Herbert Bruch (SC-Esquimalt) said it was up to the caucus to decide whether Mr. Bryan shall be allowed to stay in the party.

Government whip Bert Price took the same position.

"It's up to the caucus, or Mr. Bryan," he said.

RCAF Shifts Equipment To Stations

PORT ALBERT — Cars, trucks, a bus and an ambulance, numbering a dozen vehicles in all, were brought here by scow from Tofino Airport this week for delivery to other RCAF stations.

Smaller equipment had been moved by airlift earlier in the month. The vehicles were the last items to leave, and marked the end of the airport as a radar station.

Squirrels, Hippos 'Await' Man Invading Outer Space

NEW YORK (AP)—A United States Air Force scientist says man may find outer space crawling with these mental hazards:

Marching squirrels, smiling hippopotami, tiny rocket ships that fire pellets, and little men who swing on space ship instruments.

Reporting to a meeting of the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences, experimental psychologist George T. Haury told of three pre-space experiments.

One of these was conducted by McGill University scientists in Montreal. They wanted to find out what happened when sights, sounds and other sense stimuli were shut off. They closed male volunteers in cubicles for 48 hours.

One subject reported "a procession of squirrels with sacks over their shoulders marching purposefully across a snowfield."

MINDS CONFUSED
In addition to having hallucinations, the volunteers became irritable and were unable to concentrate on complex ideas. The volunteers were amused by the visions at first—but later complained that they interfered with their sleep.

In another experiment, Haury confined 30 volunteers in cockpits and put them to work for 30 consecutive hours. They had to regulate and control certain occurrences using dials and buttons on instrument panels.

While allowed 20-minute breaks at meal times, they were not permitted to sleep.

These subjects also reported hallucinations such as: "On several occasions, the instrument showed a hippopotamus smiling at me."

Another said he spent a good deal of time brushing away little men who kept swinging on the air speed indicator and preventing him from reading it.

"In space travel," said Haury, "the human operator will certainly be denied much of the sensory experience to which he is normally accustomed."

In addition, he'll have to do jobs that are highly repetitious. Unless certain dangers are recognized and corrected before man gets into space, the human element could be the most erratic component of a space travel system.

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—The 61-year-old handyman, David A. Jacobs, found in a state of "deep freeze" after lying for 13 hours in an ice-covered creek, died early today in hospital.

Circumstances of the death were not available until doctors have made a complete examination, a hospital spokesman said.
